White Book Bares Japanese Plot to Kidnap Roosevelt

By WADE WERNER

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4 (AP)—How close Pearl Harbor came to being a much greater national humiliation than it actually was is disclosed in the White Book issued by Secretary of State Hull over the week-end to promote "a clearer understanding" of war problems and issues by Americans.

The final and most dramatic portion of the book reveals that the Japanese not only planned months in advance for "a surprise mass attack at Pearl Harbor," but did their diplomatic utmost to maneuver Japanese-American peace discussions in such a way that President Roosevelt would be in the hands of the Japanese navy when its torpedo planes stabbed at the heart of American seapower in the Pacific.

Ambassador Joseph C. Grew informed the State Department on Jan. 27, 1941, of reports that Japan planned the surprise attack in case of "trouble" with the United States.

MEETING URGED

Apparently the Japanese government did not know the American ambassador had got wind of its designs, for a few months later it began urging on the State Department a plan to bring President Roosevelt and Premier Prince Konoze together aboard a Japanese warship in the Pacific for a "frank exchange of views."

Japanese Ambassador Kichisaburo Nomura broached the subject to Secretary Hull on Aug. 8, when the presence of Japanese troops in French Indo-China was complicating the already strained relations between Japan and the United States.

"The ambassador then inquired," says the White Book, "whether it might be possible to arrange for a meeting of the responsible heads of the two governments to discuss means of adjusting relations between the two nations."

Secretary Hull's response is not recorded, but a few weeks later the subject was reopened, this time by a message from Prince Konoze himself to President Roosevelt, pointing out that informal Japanese-American conversations were getting nowhere.

RAF POUNDS RUHR TARGETS

LONDON, Jan. 4 (AP)—British bombers attacked targets in the Ruhr last night to top off a day-long Sunday assault on Nazi strongholds, which included a smashing raid by U. S. Navy bombers on the St. Nazaire submarine base.

Three of the RAF craft were reported missing from the night assault. DNB, official German news agency, said a town in the Ruhr suffered damage.

It was understood that only a small force took part in the raid.

It was the first time since New Year's Eve that the big RAF bombers had struck at Germany. The last heavy raid was on Dec. 21 when Munich was attacked by a large force of bombers.

The U. S. Army Air Force lost seven bombers on the St. Nazaire raid—the greatest loss yet suffered on raids on German-held territory—but the communique announcing the raid reported that bursts were seen on the target and fires were started among the shipbuilding and repair facilities of the huge base.

In Berlin the high command asserted that 16 four-motored British bombers were shot down during a daylight raid yesterday over the west coast of France without the loss of a German plane.

—FOR VICTORY: BUT BONDS—GERMAN GENERAL KILLED

NEW YORK, Jan. 4 (AP)—The British radio quoted the Swedish newspaper Svenska Dagbladet today as saying Maj.-Gen. Heinz von Randow, commander of the 21st German armored division, had been killed in North Africa. The broadcast was recorded by CBS.

REDS CONTINUE CAUCASUS GAIN

By HENRY C. CASSIDY

MOSCOW, Jan. 4 (AP)—The Red Army of the Caucasus advanced along both banks of the Terek river today, driving the Germans back to the northwest and west from newly recaptured Mozdok and breaking a salient the Nazis forces had thrust forward more than four months ago toward the Grozny oil fields, Russian reports said.

The swift Russian recapture yesterday of Mozdok and Malgobek, 15 miles southeast of Mozdok, was considered a major victory like those of Stalingrad and Velikie Luki, where the Red Army continued its offensives.

The German lines appeared to be crumbling in the most important sectors, the Russians said, as the Nazi command stiffened resistance at some points only to be hit at others by the hard-driving Red army.

Several more unspecified villages were reported taken northwest and west of Mozdok since the recapture of the city.

GERMANS' PERIL, GROWS

The next major Russian objective appeared to be Prokhladnenski, a railroad junction 35 miles west of Mozdok. Reoccupation of Prokhladnenski would cut off the German forces at Nalchik, now under attack from the south-east.

Winter rains have broken the terrain and made the Caucasus campaign slower than the drive across the Don steppes, but the entire German position in the heart of the north Caucasus—already imperiled by the Russian push south from Stalingrad—now appeared in greater danger from frontal assaults.

The Red army launched its attack on Mozdok from a village a short distance to the east, where the Germans' autumn offensive in that direction was checked, dispatches said.

A Pravda dispatch, describing the fury of the fighting in this region, said that of 1500 houses originally standing in the village only 70 remained.

The midday Soviet communique, as heard in London by the Soviet Monitor, reported Russian troops had liberated several other populated regions in the Mozdok region and inflicted heavy losses. In one sector, the communique said, 700 German officers and men were killed.

GAIN IN MIDDLE DON

Four hundred more Germans were reported killed in the fighting on the central front where, the communique said, the Red army advanced, destroying several enemy strongholds. New gains also were reported both in the middle Don area and the region southwest of Stalingrad.

The announcement came a few hours after Russian dispatches from the front told how Russian troops more than 1000 miles to the northwest of Mozdok had pushed along the Moscow-Riga railway line to a point only 70 miles from the Latvian border.

The communique was read over the Moscow radio early today and was followed by the playing of the Internationale—an unusual gesture. The Germans had been held in the Mozdok area since last August when they reached the town in a drive down the Rostov-Baku railway.

The regular Soviet communique, as heard by the Soviet monitor in London, told of continuing Russian advances in the Velikie Luki region, on the middle Don front and south and southwest of Stalingrad.

BUNA TAKEN, ALLIES PUSH ON SANANANDA

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN AUSTRALIA, Jan. 4 (AP)—Surrounded and facing annihilation, the only Japanese forces remaining on the Papuan peninsula of New Guinea were confined today in a narrow pocket on Sanananda Point by American and Australian troops who wiped out the last vestiges of enemy resistance around Buna over the week-end.

"The enemy's position is now hopeless," declared a communique from General MacArthur's headquarters, adding that Allied troops already were moving up for the kill.

The bulletin announced that the Allies had "completed the destruction of the enemy's defeated forces" in the Buna area—a statement which a headquarters spokesman amplified by declaring that 650 Japanese had been slain in mopping up operations following the capture of Buna Mission.

The fall of Buna Mission was disclosed in a special announcement from Allied headquarters yesterday, but a pocket of enemy resistance still remained to be cleaned out west of Giropa Creek before the Allies could turn their attention to Sanananda Point.

General MacArthur's heavy bombers stabbed again yesterday at the Japanese bases on New Britain, blasting shipping and harbor installations at Rabaul and straining the Gasmata airfield.

Airmen said they saw flames rising from a 10,000-ton ship which apparently had received two direct hits at Rabaul.

GROVE SURVIVORS FERTILE FIELD FOR MENTAL RESEARCH

This is the first in a series of articles that reveal new studies in disaster aftermath as they apply to the minds of victims who survived the Coconut Grove holocaust.

By PAULINE WARREN

From knowledge gained through a thorough analysis of victims of the Coconut Grove fire, two eminent psychiatrists of the Massachusetts General Hospital are instituting a system whereby it may be possible to administer first-aid for the mind as quickly as wounds are treated.

Delving into psychiatric records of the disaster brought some curious facts to light, affording the unique chance to see how much horror the human mind can stand without cracking.

Wholesale bombing of civilian populations gave psychiatrists in Britain a chance to study and correct immediately any mental ills caused by major disasters, but even the largest air raid on London never killed as many as died in the Grove holocaust.

USED FOR MASSES

For the first time psychiatry, which many people have considered an expensive medical aid available only to the rich, was used for the masses and was applied to all instantly, to forestall mental disorders that might result from the cataclysm at the Grove.

So far psychiatry has only come to the rescue AFTER the mind shows signs of disturbance.

For example, you experience some great fear, or shock, or are wounded in an accident. When your wounds are healed you are dismissed from the hospital. Sometime afterwards—it might be months or even years—you begin to have horrible dreams, nervous symptoms, depression or hysteria. After a long disengaging process a psychiatrist can eventually root out the cause of the trouble.

Now the psychiatry department of the hospital hopes to be able to diagnose your mental condition and anticipate your mental reaction so as to apply corrective measures BEFORE the disturbing dreams and the rest of the reaction starts. In brief: Your mental treatment would begin almost as soon as your wounds are dressed.

According to doctors, the Coconut Grove fire demonstrated two things: first, the remarkable resources of our population for meeting death and mutilation; and, second, the necessity of expert psychiatric help to assist the victims and their relatives in coping most effectively with their tragedy.

CAREFUL CHECK

The psychiatry department of the hospital is planning to keep a careful check on all the Grove's patients in months and years to come. This is as a sort of insurance against any mental rebound from the tragedy. It will be a follow-up service whereby Grove patients and their relatives may have an opportunity to secure help in hastening their emotional readjustment.

Editor's Note—This is a giant step in the treatment of the mind and as such, it can be classed with preventive medicine.

A good many of these patients would seldom come to the psychiatrist of themselves, since, traditionally, the recovery from a tragedy has to be dealt with by the person himself with the assistance of his friends.

Probably only a few of the Grove victims know that modern psychiatry can help toward a rapid return of efficiency and emotional equilibrium in most

7-Inch Snow, Then Sleet

Greater Boston faces a seven-inch snowfall before night, according to the U. S. Weather Bureau.

The snow is expected to turn to sleet, followed by temperatures in the low 20's, with increasing winds.

Commuting schedules—rail, bus and Elevated—were disrupted today by the storm, plus the increase in passengers.

Only minor accidents were reported throughout the metropolitan area.

Two hundred plows are clearing the streets throughout the city, while 400 men are shoveling the snow from crosswalks in the downtown shopping district, according to Public Works Commr. George G. Hyland.

Hyland also has issued an order to all contractors to "stand by" for possible emergency orders should the snowfall continue, and thus prevent any tieup in the city's transportation system.

HUSBAND IN NAVY UNAWARE EVERETT MOTHER OF 4 DEAD

Death of an Everett mother of four children whose husband, a Navy recruit of three weeks, is still unaware of the tragedy at his home, was revealed today.

Several attempts to reach the husband, Kenneth M. Kerr, 35, a carpenter's mate, third class, with a Navy construction regiment in training at Davisville, R. I., have brought no reply.

Mrs. Lena Kerr, who died on Jan. 2 after an illness of several weeks, was the mother of Kenneth, 13; Jean, 6, and 4-year-old twins, John and Jane, who have been living with their grandmother, Mrs. Rosanna Leveille of Randolph st., Arlington.

Little Jean, the family disclosed, is still recovering from serious injuries suffered when she was struck by a truck in Broadway, Everett, last summer.

Kerr joined the Navy in the late fall and was called to duty Dec. 18.

While relatives continued efforts to contact Kerr, plans for the wife's funeral from the home of her mother were completed.

She will be buried tomorrow

EAST SHORT A THIRD OF OIL DEMAND, ICKES TELLS SENATE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4 (AP)—Petroleum Administrator Ickes told a special Senate committee today that the eastern seaboard's gasoline and fuel oil supplies were on a "hand to mouth basis" and were likely to continue in that status for months to come.

The first witness in an investigation of the petroleum shortage, Ickes said he had not felt justified in "holding out any hope in the relaxation of very necessary rationing of gasoline" and could hope for only slight easing in fuel oil quotas.

Ickes said Eastern States' demand was running to 1,500,000 barrels of oil daily, as against present transportation of about 1,000,000 barrels. Rail tank cars were wearing out and 14 per cent of them now were in the repair shop all the time, he said.

The petroleum administrator said it had been necessary to cut gasoline quotas in order to ration a much fuel oil as possible.

"We believe it is more important to keep people warm than it is to let them go to football games, horse races or prize fights," he observed.

Ickes said the new pipe line from East Texas to Illinois, going into operation Feb. 1, would help. He expressed the hope that a new $25-mile pipe line from Illinois to New Jersey could be completed by June 1.

This would deliver 300,000 barrels daily to the east coast, but he said that military demands could be expected to continue to climb. The War Production Board is considering another pipe line from Texas to the east coast, he said.

MORE KEROSENE FOR HUB

To meet what he described as a critical kerosene situation in the Boston area, Ickes said the Army had obtained 200,000 drums in the southwestern section of the United States and was delivering them to oil companies there for transshipment by freight.

The Boston area already had been given 120 per cent of the kerosene supply it had last year, he said, adding that he suspected "there is a little hoarding going on."

He had been told, the witness continued, that deliveries were bad, that pedlars sold their stocks out to the first customers on their routes, and that cook stoves had been left burning all day long to provide heat.

"We don't regard that as cricket," he said, "but I don't know how you are going to police it."

No Reduction in Oil Change Coupon Value

So-called "change" units issued with fuel ration coupons are not affected by the new order reducing the coupons 10 per cent in value, Henry Parkman, Jr., state OPA administrator, declared today.

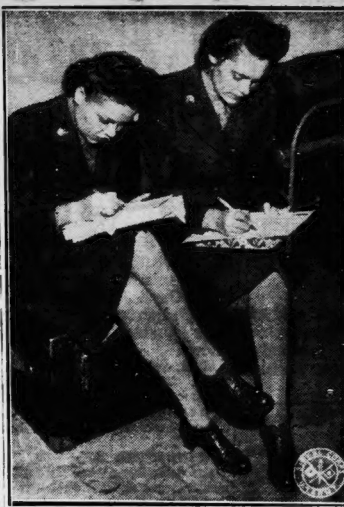

Change coupons in the case of householders have a fixed value of one and five gallons, Parkman said, and were issued to facilitate the delivery of odd gallonage.

He warned that persons using the change units to circumvent the new reduction would be the losers in the end, since they may in the future have to forfeit a nine-gallon coupon for as little as five-gallon delivery.

Every Replaceable Male Facing Draft—McNutt

NEW YORK, Jan. 4 (AP)—Paul V. McNutt, war manpower commissioner, said today the armed services "will almost certainly claim every replaceable male employee or military age and fitness in every industry, regardless of its essentiality."

McNutt, writing in the magazine Factory Management and Maintenance, said that during the current year withdrawals probably would equal, for the average plant, the total of all previous withdrawals since the start of the war.

Commenting that the "coming impact of Selective Service withdrawals on industrial personnel is still not generally realized," McNutt urged employers to make up "manning tables" showing essential workers and the length of time required to train employees who are to replace those drafted.

Selective service boards, he said, would then be notified to defer essential employees long enough to permit training new men.

McNutt predicted a pronounced drop in the turnover of industrial personnel as a result of the ban on voluntary enlistments.

"Employers . . . will find, I am sure, that the rate at which they lose men to the armed services will become much more stable and predictable, while the restless tendencies of military-age workers naturally will be stilled," he said.

The magazine, in an article accompanying McNutt's statements, said the day when practically every man of military age and fitness will be inducted is neither theoretical nor remote.

"Few officials will say so publicly, but few will deny off the record that dependency alone is just about through as a basis for deferment," it said.

"Meanwhile the lowering of the draft age limit to 38 would tend to intensify slightly the strain on the age groups between that figure and 20. But the inclusion of men 18 to 20 will ease it considerably for the present. In all events, the burden will fall finally with the greatest weight on the group between 20 and 30. Some studies have shown that only about 30 to 40 per cent of men over 30 are likely to prove physically fit for military service."

TIRE CHECKUP BAN SOUGHT

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4 (AP)—Termining government tire inspection and registration requirements "silly and a reflection on the honesty of the American people," Rep. Manasco (D.) of Alabama said today he would seek to eliminate them by legislation when Congress reconvenes this week.

Manasco said he was drafting a bill which would forbid the Office of Price Administration or any other federal agency to require the registration and periodic inspection of tires.

Such inspections already have been ordered, the frequency of the examinations depending on the type of gasoline ration card held by the owner. A part of the order required all motorists to register the serial numbers of their tires.

After spending four hours "and using up lots of gasoline" to have his own tires inspected, Manasco said he was convinced the plan was "silly."

"It doesn't conserve rubber or gasoline and it doesn't prove anything at all," he declared. "You have to wait in line for hours to get your inspection and pay a charge for it, and most of the so-called inspectors wouldn't know whether or not there were anything wrong with the tires."

Frisco Makes Plea for Meat

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 4 (AP)—SAN FRANCISCO, without meat for three days, and its grocers' shelves virtually barren, appealed to the federal government today for assistance.

"Meat—beef, pork, veal, lamb—practically vanished from butcher shops New Year's Eve. There has been none at all since early Saturday and will be none, butchers said, until Tuesday, and then only a scant supply.

In addition, said W. D. Hader, executive secretary of the California Retail Grocers' Ass'n, only two stores out of 50 he inspected had any stocks of canned goods. Butter and egg stocks were scant.

Fresh vegetables, bakery products and packaged goods were the only foods remaining in adequate supply, and even in these the choice was limited.

Crash Wastes 350 Gallons of Range Oil

Boston had 350 gallons less of its most precious fluid, range oil, today, after a truck loaded with the fuel skidded on Irving st., West End, went over a curb, crashed a fence and smashed a pipe releasing the liquid.

Firemen pushed the truck downhill to check the flow of oil.

Here's the rationing timetable, in a nutshell, for Greater Boston residents:

COFFEE: Today, Jan. 4, is first day for ration stamp No. 28, good for one pound of coffee until midnight, Feb. 7.

AUTOS: Dec. 1 to Jan 31 is the first tire inspection period.

GASOLINE: Jan. 21 is last day for No. 3 ration coupons in A books.

SUGAR: Dec. 16 to Jan. 31, ration stamp 10 good for three pounds.

WAR RATION BOOK: Jan. 15 is final date for obtaining War Ration Book No. 1.

WIFE KILLED IN GUN TUSSELE, SAYS HUSBAND

WORCESTER, Jan. 4.—Head bowed low and raising his eyes only once, to plead not guilty,

Roger Shepherd

Roger D. Shepherd, 27-year-old war worker, today was held without bail on a charge that he murdered his attractive 24-year-old wife, Victoria, mother of his two children.

The arraignment brought a new version of the shooting yesterday in the Shepherd home, climaxing a quarrel over his drinking. In the new version he claimed the death of his wife was accidental.

Detective-Lieut. James J. McTiernan told Judge Frank L. Riley in district court Shepherd had declared he had intended shooting himself, but Mrs. Shepherd grappled for the 22-caliber rifle and in the scuffle it was discharged.

McTiernan said that according to Shepherd's new story he arrived home yesterday shortly after 2 a. m. and his wife reprimanded him for continuous drinking since Wednesday.

Then she stripped off two rings he had given her for Christmas

MRS. VICTORIA SHEPHERD
Wife Slain, Hubby Held

and gave them back to him—a wedding ring to replace the original one she had lost, and a diamond ring.

Shepherd got his rifle, loaded it and threatened to kill himself, but the young wife attempted to take away the weapon and was shot in the right breast, he told police.

In court today, because of an alleged suicide attempt following arrest, Shepherd was under heavy guard.

He was unshackled when he arrived, but after being held without bail—his counsel, Herman J. Dumas, waiving examination—he was handcuffed before being removed to Worcester jail to await grand jury action.

12-YEAR MASQUERADE AS MAN; $2 PURCHASE OF BABY BARED

CHICAGO, Jan. 4 (INS).—A woman's 12-year masquerade as a man was brought to full light today as police held three adults and placed three children in custody of institutions.

Central figure in the incredible case was "Thomas Vernon," who played the outward role of "husband," until unmasked and discovered to be Mrs. Mildred Allen, 30, the mother of an 11-year-old daughter. She explained:

"I adopted a man's disguise when I was 18 so I could earn a man's wages."

When taken into custody by police, Mrs. Allen flashed a draft card in the name of Thomas Vernon. She had been placed in 3-A, she said, because of her height—five feet, one inch.

OPERATED STUDIO

"Vernon" was arrested in a photographic studio she operated in Chicago with Miss Esther Hoffman, 31, daughter of Dr. Dayton Hoffman, respected and prominent physician of Akron, Ind.

Dr. Hoffman's curiosity caused the arrest of his daughter and Mrs. Allen, after he became suspicious when an "expected baby failed to arrive" as per schedule.

He told police his daughter had informed him that she expected a child. But as each date set arrived and passed he would receive a letter to the effect that there had been "some delay."

The physician, with a police escort, entered the home and found Mrs. Allen in bed with a 4-months-old baby girl, Dawn, whom the pair admitted they purchased on the instalment plan from its real mother, Mrs. Vivian Anderson, 21, whose husband was said to be in prison on a sex charge.

GIVEN ONLY $2

Mrs. Anderson, arrested following the story told police by "Vernon" and Miss Hoffman, said, according to her confession, that she had sold her baby to the "Vernons" but that she had thought of repurchasing the infant because she had been given only $2 on the purchase price.

Mrs. Anderson's two other children were sent to the juvenile home and Dawn was placed in St. Vincent's Orphanage. Following her arrest, Mrs. Allen told police:

"My husband and I separated shortly after the birth of our daughter, and I made up my mind that if I had to make my own living I wasn't going to be satisfied with a woman's pay."

"I had been a waitress in an Eau Claire, Wis., restaurant. My father was a farmer near that city. I got together some men's clothing and went to Rock Falls, Ill. My disguise worked and I got a job as a truck driver for a construction company. They liked my work so well they promoted me to gang boss, and I held that job two years."

After that, she continued, she went to Sterling, Ill., across the Rock River from Rock Falls, and launched her own construction company, which failed when business slackened off.

Later she came to Chicago and worked for a photographic firm and then went on to Indianapolis, where she said she met Miss Hoffman.

"We ran around together several months before I told her I was really a woman," Mrs. Allen recalled. "Then we took the name of Vernon and came to Chicago."

Dr. Hoffman told police his daughter had informed him of her "marriage" in Indianapolis, but had refused to show off her "husband."

Both of the women refused to disclose how long they had lived together as "man and wife."

The deep voiced Mrs. Allen, when confronted with the facts, gained by police from Miss Hoffman, who broke down first, shouted curses at her astounded audience and swung her muscular arms, threatening all with punches. She weighs 130 pounds, but is stockily built.

M. P. DIES OF WOUNDS

LONDON, Jan. 4 (AP).—Lieut. Col. Somerset A. Maxwell, 37, Conservative member of the House of Commons, was reported today to have died of wounds in the Middle East.

SYMPHONY CONCERT OPENS WAR FUND DRIVE TONIGHT

With a concert by the Boston Symphony Orchestra directed by Dr. Serge Koussevitzky and an address by Henry R. Luce, editor-in-chief of Time, Life and Fortune magazines as principal attractions, the Special Gifts Division of the Greater Boston United War Fund will open its drive in Symphony Hall tonight.

More than 2000 residents of 49 cities and towns in Greater Boston will attend the meeting, and 500 service men will be guests. The musicians are donating their services.

Tonight's meeting is the third official event in opening of the fund campaign for its $7,800,000 goal. Army chaplains of three denominations were heard in a Sunday radio appeal to Bostonians that they "give enough, soon enough." The chaplains, introduced by Charles C. Cabot, general campaign fund chairman, were Maj. Bradley J. Folensbee, Protestant; Lieut. Morris A. Sandhaus, Jewish, and Capt. Edward A. McDonough, Catholic.

This forenoon Charles Francis Adams, president of the Greater Boston Community Fund, made a radio plea during the Morgan Memorial Church of All Nations program.

Women volunteers of the educational division will launch their part in the fund campaign Wednesday noon at an annual "Dutch treat" luncheon at the University Club.

AEF Soldier to Die in Killing

LONDON, Jan. 4 (AP).—Pvt. Sammie Mickles, a 23-year-old Negro from Citronelle, Ala., was sentenced by a general court-martial in Glasgow Dec. 30 to be hanged for the murder of Jan Clapciak, a Polish seaman, U. S. Army headquarters here announced today.

Mickles was the first American soldier given the death sentence in Britain since war began.

Testimony was that Mickles and a soldier friend met another soldier accompanying two white girls in Glasgow. Clapciak and another Polish seaman were said to have come up and talked to one of the girls, finally seizing her arm.

The girl resented Clapciak's attentions, according to the testimony, and a scuffle ensued. The Polish seaman was said to have struck Mickles with a chisel, slightly wounding him.

Mickles and his soldier friend left the scene, but Mickles was declared to have returned and fatally stabbed Clapciak.

Hero on Sub Describes Sinking of 2 Jap Ships

The sinking of two large Japanese ships and the damaging of an enemy destroyer, only a short distance from the Nipponese mainland, by a U. S. submarine were described today by one of the submersible's crew, John Harry Ostopoulos of Stearns st., Cambridge.

The submarine's captain, a lieutenant commander, was awarded the Navy Cross for the sinkings, and all members of the crew were sent letters of commendation.

Ostopoulos' story gave a picture of the daring and bravery of American Navy men.

He told how the submarine approached the Japanese mainland so close that crew members could see the rice fields.

He described how calmly the crew members, weeks in Japanese waters and nearly two months away from their base, braved the long strain.

BOMBED BY JAPS

And he pictured the courage of the crew while the submarine was under attack by destroyers and during the several times the vessel was bombed by Japanese patrol planes.

The first sinking, Ostopoulos, a fireman, second class, said, was that of a luxury liner which had been converted into a freighter. The submarine caught her slipping away from port, and let go with four torpedoes. Three of the freighter, leaving her in flames, while the fourth struck a destroyer escorting the former merchant ship.

It was believed that the destroyer was also sunk, but the submarine's officers could not verify it, so they recorded the destroyer as damaged.

SCORE FIVE HITS

Finally, with but three days, of their patrol period left and only five torpedoes remaining, the submarine's officers sighted their second victim, a big cargo vessel. All five were hits, and the submarine surfaced shortly after the attack.

Only oil slick remained. There were no other signs of ship or crew.

A graduate of Rindge Technical High School, Ostopoulos, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Ostopoulos, has been in the Navy since July 17, 1941, when he was sent to a naval air station.

Because he was interested in Diesel engines, he was sent, in October, 1941, to a submarine school and has been in that branch since. He was transferred to the Pacific Fleet last March.

CARDINAL'S VICTORY PRAYER STIRS BOSTON CATHOLICS

Catholic laymen throughout the Boston archdiocese today renewed Cardinal O'Connell's prayers for "a speedy victory and an honorable peace," made to a gathering of 2000 Holy Name members at Holy Cross Cathedral.

"It gives me always the greatest pleasure to be with you on this, your great feast day, the feast of the Holy Name of Jesus," the Cardinal said. "I came to bring you all the blessings of this holy season.

"I come to ask you to join with me in prayer that God may send us a speedy victory and an honorable peace. May the great power of God which rules our universe hear our prayer.

"We know that there is abroad an accursed sense of tyranny—autocracy—an honest name for it—that would deprive us of all our freedom—both civil and religious, but, men of the Holy Name, the church has passed through many such crises before and has always come out stronger than ever because such men as you have been faithful and loyal and true to her principles and to her godly sense of faith and promise.

"And so we fear nothing because we trust in God and in the strength of God. We shall go forward to victory. And so we send to all our men at the front our best wishes and hopes and we ask God to bless them and protect them and guard them in this hour of strife. Then kneeling before the sacrament of the altar, we ask Him and beg of Him to bring back again peace to the world that needs it so much. Let us pray with all our hearts that the cause of our nation, which is just, shall triumph over tyranny that would deprive us of our rights both civil and religious."

Parishes represented by Holy Name members were the Cathedral, St. John-St. Hugh's, Roxbury; St. Philip's, Roxbury; St. Patrick's, Roxbury; St. Francis de Sales, Roxbury; Our Lady of the Angels, Roxbury; Holy Trinity, Roxbury, and St. Stephen's, Back Bay.

MONEY, MATERIAL, MANPOWER TASKS FACE NEW CONGRESS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4 (AP)—The crucible of global war held for the incoming 78th Congress today one of history's toughest assignments—the job of testing the nation's stamina as it fuses the ingredients of manpower, money and material for victory and eventual peace.

From its work will be shaped the way of life on the home front; from its appropriations will be forged the weapons of war for the American fighting forces; from its deliberations may come the pattern for a lasting peace.

The 78th Congress convenes Wednesday. Not for a decade has the membership of the House and Senate been so evenly divided, yet leaders of both the Democratic majority and the resurgent Republican minority have declared that division would disappear on war issues.

will be that of supplying the fighting forces and of furnishing weapons of war to other United Nations for that purpose. Congress already has appropriated $220,000,000, much of it still unspent. President Roosevelt is expected to ask for another $100,000,000.

And, as the drain on the normal supply of men and material increases, so, too, will the need for tighter controls, for strict rationing of both grow. It may result in changes in the price control act and possibly in a national manpower service act.

Here are some of the issues which will confront the new Congress:

- 1—New taxes, possibly adoption of a pay-as-you-go collection plan.
- 2—Economies in non-military governmental spending.
- 3—Plans for postwar reconstruction and employment.
- 4—Extension of reciprocal trade agreements.
- 5—Revision of present labor statutes.
- 6—"Streamlining" of congressional machinery.
- 7—Renewal of the administration's lend-lease authority.
- 8—Probably the biggest budget in history.
- 9—Extension of social security.
- 10—Extension of rationing.
- 11—Possibly a national service act.
- 12—Elimination of the poll tax as a voting prerequisite.
- 13—Revival of the anti-Lynch issue.
- 14—Consideration of enforced savings.

Wrecks of Battle Coming Back to U. S. for Scrap

MOBILE, Ala., Jan. 4 (AP)—A battle salvage program to bring captured German and Japanese metals back to this country is the Army's answer to helping keep American steel mills running at full tilt in 1943.

Major Charles E. Miller of the Army Salvage Department announced here today the specially trained work battalions at the various fronts on which United States troops are fighting hope to provide scrap metal for the holds of ships returning after delivering war materials to the scenes of action.

The said scrap from these sources would "be a substantial contribution to the nation's total."

There is no shortage of shipping space on the return voyages, he explained, but the Army is sometimes forced to use all its ingenuity in loading heavy battlefield salvage, such as abandoned German tanks, into cargo ships at small ports.

The scrap loads, the major said, will be turned over to scrap dealers for processing on arrival in the United States, but title to the metals will remain with the federal government until delivery to the consumer, who will pay the established price.

Committees of scrap dealers and consumers to work with the Army's salvage program have been set up by Maj. Miller in all large metal consuming centers and their adjacent ports.

Specialists in recovering battlefield metals needed in the war effort are being trained at Ft. Francis E. Warren, Wyo., Maj. Miller said.

Maj. Miller will meet the nation's scrap dealers at their convention in New York Jan. 16 and 17 to explain further their duties in the campaign.

BATTLESHIP'S BIG VICTORIES OPEN NEW CHAPTER IN WAR

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4 (AP)—A Navy report on the effectiveness with which one American battleship destroyed Japanese airplanes and men-o-war in two great battles last fall opened a new chapter today in the grim story of naval warfare in the Pacific.

The results of the two engagements were regarded by adherents of the big battlewagons as proof that they could withstand severe attacks by air and deliver telling blows by night despite the handicaps which darkness imposes on long range battling at sea.

One highly placed officer, who could not be quoted by name, predicted that future engagements in the Pacific would see much greater use of battleships, especially at night when they are relatively free of interference from enemy planes and able to devote themselves entirely to offensive purposes.

The battleship accomplishments on which the Navy reported today were credited to an unidentified vessel under command of Capt. Thomas Leigh Gatch, 51, of Annapolis, Md.

SHOOT DOWN 32 JAPS

In the air-sea battle of Santa Cruz last Oct. 26, the official account showed, Gatch's ship shot down 32 planes with its anti-aircraft guns, including all 20 of the enemy dive-bombers which made the initial attack on it.

The second battle was the night action off Guadalcanal Island Nov. 14, in which this battleship in company with others, deliberately entered a Japanese naval trap. Due primarily to the fire power of the battleships—the only other American vessels were destroyers—a Jap battleship or heavy cruiser, three cruisers and one destroyer were sunk and another battleship, a cruiser and a destroyer were damaged.

Gatch's battleship alone accounted for three cruisers, its 16-inch guns blowing them to the bottom long before they could get their own guns within range.

BATTLE AT 8 MILES

The distance of the action had previously been reported to be more than eight miles.

The ship suffered one hit, on a turret, and a bomb fragment wounded Capt. Gatch, severing an artery in his neck, knocking him unconscious and tearing the muscles of his shoulder.

Three weeks later Gatch reported again for active duty.

In the Santa Cruz battle, the Japanese lost 100 airplanes definitely and 50 others probably to American carrier fighter planes and the battleship's anti-aircraft fire. The Jap carrier forces lost heavily in ships to the torpedo and dive bomber planes from the American carriers and the American force lost one aircraft, which has never been identified and one destroyer, the Porter.

Ohio Flood Crest Rolls On

CINCINNATI, Jan. 4 (AP)—A 150-mile-long flood crest moved slowly down the Ohio River through the Cincinnati district today, stopping navigation, shutting down some war plants and chasing lowlands residents to higher ground.

However, impending cold weather plus low stages in all tributaries above Louisville—150 miles downstream—promised a moderately fast run-off, leaving little material damage behind, barring heavy rains.

The river, over flood stage for its entire 981 miles last week crested at Portsmouth, O., manufacturing city of 40,000 yesterday, and then started falling slowly.

Max Lerner Sees F. D. Running Again in '44

President Roosevelt may be a candidate to succeed himself in the 1944 election, with post-war policies the chief issue, in the opinion of Max Lerner, author and economist.

Speaking at a Ford Hall Forum audience, Lerner listed Vice-President Wallace, Economics Director Byrnes and Manpower Commissioner McNutt as other possibilities. He asserted Wendell Willkie seemed to be the only Republican candidate strong enough to make a close contest.

DRIVE BY G-MEN ON DRAFT DELINQUENTS STARTS FEB. 1

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4 (AP)—Selective Service headquarters announced that "vigorous action" against draft delinquents would be started by the Justice Department, Feb. 1.

The action will be directed against men "believed to be delinquent by reason of failure to keep in touch with their local boards as required. Selective Service estimated their number at "less than three-tenths of one per cent of all registrants."

In connection with the campaign, Selective Service issued these two orders:

Beginning Feb. 1, "all men in the 18 to 45 age groups who for six months or more have been subject to registration" must carry their classification as well as their registration cards or risk penalties as great as five years in prison and a $10,000 fine.

Local draft boards shall mail notices to delinquent registrants immediately and report to U. S. District Attorneys those who do not "comply with their obligations during January." The boards also are to review their records on delinquency and keep them up to date, notifying the prosecutor when each delinquent complies with his obligations.

The requirement that the 18-to-45 registrants—who include many men deferred by the recent order lowering the maximum draft age to 37 years—carry classification cards is to enable them to "show that they are in communication with their local boards and have been classified as to availability for military service," the announcement said.

Registrants who do not have classification cards or have lost them should communicate with their local boards before Feb. 1 and obtain them "so as to avoid charges of delinquency," it added.

The service said most delinquents were believed "due to negligence or lack of understanding of selective service regulations," and reported that the record of 0.3 per cent delinquency among all registrants compared with a 4.5 per cent delinquency between 1917 and 1918.

Headquarters reminded board members that the Justice Department was charged with enforcing the draft act and making any necessary arrests or prosecutions.

WON'T REDUCE BAIL

Atty. Callahan asked for a reduction of bail in the case of Barnett Welansky, who was under $10,000 double surety. He said Barnett lived in Boston all his life and had been a member of the bar for 20 years.

"There is no question in my mind," said Callahan, "nor can there be in anybody's mind but that he will be here to answer the complaint. There is no reason to feel he will not be here."

Callahan asked, first that Barnett be allowed to go on his own recognizance. Judge Donohue refused, and again refused when Callahan asked that bail be reduced to $5,000.

Just before calling the defendants, Judge Donohue swore in the new Grand Jury, before which it is expected the second phase of the Coconut Grove disaster investigation will be presented.

NEW JURY'S JOB

The judge said to the new grand jurors:

"You may have read the newspapers about the Coconut Grove disaster. As for myself, I have not paid much attention, except to headlines, because I knew that I was going to be in court on this day.

"I do not know whether further evidence about the Coconut Grove disaster will be presented to you. But if they have further evidence, it will be presented to you and you can determine if a crime has been committed.

"You have the right to conduct an independent investigation of your own."

Gov. Saltonstall, meanwhile, is scheduled to confer with Mayor Tobin on measures which will remedy conditions of "laxity, incompetence, failure to fulfill prescribed duties effectively, and attempts to shift responsibility."

'Bing' Loses Trophies As Home Burns

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 4 (AP)—Charred framework and a mass of blackened debris were all that remained today of Crooner Bing Crosby's 20-room colonial mansion and his valuable collection of musical recordings, golf awards and horsingracing trophies.

The residence, a rambling two-story film colony showplace situated on a four-acre landscaped estate fronting suburban Toluca lake, was gutted last night by fire believed to have started from a short-circuit while Mrs. Crosby, formerly actress Dixie Lee, and their four sons were dismantling Christmas tree decorations.

The loss was tentatively placed at $250,000.

Mrs. Crosby and the children ran out safely. Crosby, who had a golfing date late yesterday with dancer Fred Astaire, rushed home from Bel-Air Country Club to find the house a charred ruin.

MAN QUIZZED IN BOY HUNT

Still seeking a clue to the mysterious disappearance of Malcolm "Bucky" Harris, 7-year-old Cambridge youth who vanished last Dec. 12 while on a trip to Boston, Cambridge detectives today questioned a middle-aged man held on morals charge by Boston police.

The suspect was arrested in his Waltham, South End apartment on charges involving a 24-year-old man. No word has been heard from the missing Cambridge boy since he left his Norfolk at home to visit Santa Claus in downtown Boston store. He was last seen near Boston Common.

Shortly after "Bucky" disappeared, Cambridge and Boston police searched houses in the West End district after being informed that a man between 50 and 60 years old had enticed a young boy into his apartment and held him there four days.

TAXES CALLED INFLATION BAR

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4 (INS)—The Federal Reserve Board warned today that price ceilings would be threatened by powerful inflationary forces in 1943, unless more of the expanding volume of war-boom wages and profits is channeled back into war financing.

Higher taxes and increased savings are necessary, the board declared, to soak up the increasing gap between the volume of money the public will have to spend and the value at present price levels of goods that will be available to civilians.

Well-informed government economists estimate that this gap will total $16,000,000,000 in 1943. To remove this inflationary pressure, therefore, they explain, taxes and savings will have to rise by that amount.

The reserve board's announcement revived speculation that President Roosevelt may recommend, in his budget message to be submitted to Congress next Friday, a vast new tax program with compulsory savings for individuals as a dominant feature.

The Treasury is known to be at work on such a program, and there have been reports it would call for as much as $25,000,000,000 of new taxes, part of which would be to compensate for the inevitable resultant drop in voluntary war bond sales.

A large part of the revenue would be refundable to taxpayers after the war.

Despite the greatly increased taxes the public will pay this year, the reserve board said, total civilian income available to buy goods will be much greater in 1943 than in 1942, while the supply of civilian goods will be much smaller.

12 WRITER SEES FLYING FORTS, BRAVE CREWS MOP UP NAZIS

By WES GALLAGHER
 ABOARD AN AMBULANCE PLANE OVER NORTH AFRICA, EN ROUTE TO A BASE HOSPITAL, Jan. 3 (Delayed) (AP)—After watching from a grandstand seat the destruction of 19 crack German fighters in a violent air battle, it seemed apparent to me that American engineering genius and the raw, pioneer courage of American youth had forged into one of the greatest air weapons of the war the combination of Flying Fortresses and Lightning fighters.

This may seem to be a queer place to come to such a conclusion, with four young wounded sergeant gunners strapped in the bomb bays a few feet away in this Flying Fortress "ambulance."

But I have just returned from a flight over Tunis in a Flying Fortress where I watched Fortresses and their fighter escorts rip through one of the hottest German air defenses in the world with every American bomber returning to base.

In the lead bomber in this second largest attack of the war on the Axis-held port, staged yesterday, I watched the Fortresses with their escorting fighters beat off or drive through surging swarms of Focke-Wulf 1906 and Messerschmitt 109s.

For me it was an exciting day,

DECLARE WAR NOW ON EPIDEMIC COLDS

Put "Vicks Plan" To Work

Results of medically-supervised test show followers of Vicks Plan had fewer colds... shorter colds... 50% less sickness from colds!

WITH contagious colds spreading, you've got to keep on your toes. So put Vicks Plan to work at once! Certified results of a winter-long test among 2650 children show that followers of Vicks Plan had fewer colds... shorter colds... 50% less sickness from colds!

Right in your own home this simple easy-to-follow plan may do less—or it may do even more for you and your family than this remarkable record indicates. But with colds on a rampage, it's certainly worth trying! Get full details in your package of Vicks.

IT'S EASY—HERE'S WHAT YOU DO!

Observe A Few Simple Health Rules. Live normally. Avoid excesses. Eat simple food. Drink plenty of water. Keep elimination regular. Get plenty of rest and sleep. Avoid crowds and people who have colds.

At First Sniffle or Sneeze, put a few drops of clinic-tested Vicks Va-tro-nol up each nostril. Use as directed in package. This specialized medication is expressly designed to aid your natural defenses against colds—and if used in time, Va-tro-nol helps prevent many colds from developing. (Even when your head is all stuffed up from a head cold, Va-tro-nol relieves distress, makes breathing easier.)

If A Cold Does Develop, or Slips By Precautions, rub clinic-tested Vicks Vaporub on back, as well as on throat and chest. Vaporub penetrates to the cold-clogged upper bronchial tubes with soothing medicinal vapors. It stimulates throat, chest, and back surfaces like a warming poultice. This penetrating-stimulating action works for hours to relieve miseries of colds... even while you sleep!

NOTE: If the miserable symptoms of the cold are not relieved promptly—or if more serious trouble seems to threaten—call in your family doctor right away.

expecting at any moment to have a bursting anti-aircraft shell or a flurry of ME-109 cannon fire drill into our ship—but for the young American fliers who a few months ago worked in their home towns or attended colleges it was just another day's work.

No air force in the world, even the German air force in its best day, had an air weapon capable of such sustained daylight bombing attacks as that of the Americans in what they call "the Daisy Chain" run over Tunis and Bizerte, where the Germans have concentrated fighters and anti-aircraft defenses of terrific fire power.

PROPER TREATMENT

This Fortress in which I am flying now is carrying the day's casualties to a hospital where there are facilities for proper treatment.

The losses in Fortresses and escort planes shot down have been the lowest of the war for the type of operation, being less than two per cent.

Even with such air weapons as the Americans have the bombing of Tunis was no picnic jaunt. But the boys flying a few feet away as this Fortress glides over rough mountain ranges have lost nothing of the Spartans in the American pioneers.

Every gunner here lying wounded fought on after being hit—fought on until his ship was in the clear.

When I asked our gunner why he kept on fighting with a leg wound several inches long, he replied: "Why not?"

ITCHING FOR FIGHT

The crew of this "ambulance" Fortress has just arrived from training. While its members are itching to get into the fight, they feel a queer sort of pride that they are flying these men to safety.

Sitting in the glass nose of the ship, I pointed to the lines shining on the instrument board showing where the stretchers were slung and remarked to Navigator Louis G. White, 25, of Louisville, Ky.: "That is a strange cargo in the bomb racks."

He replied: "They are the finest bombs we ever carried."

AEF, FRENCH HURL FOE BACK

LONDON, Jan. 4 (AP)—French forces effectively backed by United States anti-tank gunners and planes hurled back a heavy Axis armored attack yesterday southeast of Pichon and captured German and Italian prisoners, dispatches from Allied headquarters in North Africa announced today.

Correlated with this action were two raids by American airmen, flying light bombers and fighters, against Axis armored equipment concealed about the port of Sousse, 60 miles east, in which half a dozen tanks were destroyed or burned and many others damaged.

Braving bad weather, fliers struck with bombs, cannon and machine guns. One Lockheed P-38 was lost, but the pilot got down safely.

It was a spectacular follow up to a great display of growing Allied air power in Tunisia at the weekend in which American and British planes shot down 23 aircraft, damaged 34 and battered Axis supply bases.

French infantry, motorized cavalry, artillery and anti-tank units bore the brunt of the German-Italian thrust in the region of Foudouk, southeast of Pichon. The French commander cited American anti-tank crews and planes for their support.

It was the first reference to American troops in action in that immediate area, although U. S. forces were known to have moved into the southern reaches of the French protectorate.

Dust storms and rain handicapped both Axis and British armies in Libya.

DISSENSION IN DIES RANKS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4 (AP) — Dissension in the Dies Committee, which lost its official standing yesterday, boiled to the surface today on the eve of an expected request to the House to continue the group, which was formed in 1938 to investigate un-American activities.

Disagreeing with the committee's summation of the work it has done, Rep. Voorhis (D.) of California criticized his colleagues for having "neglected . . . to strike a blow" for the unification of democracy.

MINORITY VIEWS

Voorhis made public his minority views simultaneously with release of the committee's annual report listing, among other claimed accomplishments, assistance it has given to scores of public agencies, exposures of activities of Fascists, Nazis, Communists and Japanese, and investigations of federal employees.

The majority report criticized some agencies, notably the Office of Price Administration, the Federal Communications Commission and the Department of Agriculture, for having failed to dismiss employees whose Americanism the committee had questioned, and censured Attorney General Biddle for not having made a thorough probe of the background of government workers in accordance with a congressional request.

Voorhis complained that members of the committee had no opportunity to discuss or amend the report, which was released by Robert E. Stripling, secretary and chief investigator for the committee. Voorhis said the report was handed to members on a "take it or leave it basis."

But his main objection, he said, was that the committee had overlooked an opportunity to "contribute to the maximum possible extent to stiffening of the resistance of the American people to open or convert pro-Axis propaganda and to the building of a vigorous and unified democratic sentiment in the United States."

Navy Tug 'Ghost Ship', But Mystery Is Solved

LONDON, Jan. 4 (INS)—A mystery of the sea recalling the Marie Celeste 'ghost ship' incident was encountered recently by an American warship, patrolling in the Solomons, which sighted a United States naval tug without a human being aboard towing a barge laden with explosives and gasoline.

This was reported today by Bruce Niven, Melbourne correspondent of the Daily Express, who told how the warship crew boarded the tug and found everything ship-shape—but no one aboard.

Reporters were called in their proper places, ammunition stood beside the guns and the messroom showed signs of an interrupted meal, but not one person could they find. Finally the mystery was solved.

DESTROYER SUNK

It began with the sinking of the destroyer Meredith by Japanese bombers last Oct. 15. The tug crew transferred to the Meredith during the attack and when the destroyer went down the 200 survivors were machine-gunned in the water.

Only one officer and five men succeeded in reaching the tug, where they tried to get up steam, but failed. Then they got a motor launch over the side with the idea of finding other survivors floating in rafts and towing them to safety, but the launch was found to be damaged and the rafts had disappeared by the time the repairs were completed.

Soon a Japanese observation plane appeared and the party, believing it would summon a bomber force to sink the tug and barge, set out in the launch to find land. After four days they were picked up by a flying boat and flown to an Allied base.

EATEN BY SHARKS

Many of the Meredith survivors, especially the wounded, fell victims to man-eating sharks, the dispatch added. One raft containing 40 sailors ran into a group of sharks and only 13 of the seamen escaped.

Eventually two American destroyers picked up 77 out of the original complement of 327.

DIPLOMATIC DEFEATS BACK OF HITLER'S SHIFT OF ENVOYS

LONDON, Jan. 4 (AP)—Hitler's drastic shakeup of his diplomatic staff in Japan, Spain and Sweden over the week-end was declared by a foreign office commentator here today to have been a repercussion of recent Axis military defeat and the consequent loss of diplomatic prestige.

The Berlin radio announced Saturday that Gen. Eugen Ott, German ambassador to Tokyo; Eberhard von Schorer, ambassador to Madrid; and Prince Viktor zu Wied, minister to Stockholm, had been recalled and "will be given new posts in the German foreign office."

Henrich Georg Stahmer, German ambassador to Japan's puppet Chinese regime at Nanking, is replacing Ott at Tokyo; Dr. Hans Thoenen, former German charge d'affaires at Washington, is taking over the legation at Stockholm; and Hans Adolf von Moltke has been assigned to Madrid.

Diplomatic circles here interpreted Ott's placement in Tokyo as evidence of Hitler's displeasure with Japan's habit of playing a lone hand in the war without regard to Germany's needs or wishes.

Japan, it was pointed out, neither attempted an invasion of Russian Siberia nor launched a naval movement in the southwest Pacific to coincide with Rommel's summer drive on Egypt. Instead, the Japanese struck in the opposite direction, at Midway, where they took a beating, and at the Aleutians.

Stahmer's position at Madrid appeared to be solid before the British smashed Rommel's Afrika Korps at El Alamein and the Allies invaded North Africa. The two events led directly to the signing of a neutrality block between Spain and Portugal, and Germany always coldly suspicious of agreements between neutrals. Stahmer apparently was penalized for not having headed off the Iberian pact.

U. S. Fliers Hit Solomon Japs

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4 (AP)—American fliers continued their assaults against Japanese ground and sea forces in the Solomon Islands over the week-end, pounding the enemy airfield at Munda and bombing two destroyers.

One of the destroyers was left burning and the other appeared to be sinking after an attack 30 miles northwest of Rendova island in the New Georgia group.

About four hours earlier, the Navy reported, a formation of enemy destroyers was attacked by Flying Fortresses and Lightning Fighters 30 miles south of Shortland Island, but no hits were observed.

The fighting continued on Guadalcanal, with between 30 and 35 Japanese reported killed in patrol clashes.

GROVE SURVIVORS AFFORD PSYCHIATRISTS NEW RESEARCH

cases, whereas an unaided struggle against bitter emotions and depression might last for many months.

HAUNTED BY DREAMS

One of the more interesting cases studied at the Massachusetts General Hospital was that of a young ward helper who went to the temporary morgue to help. Shortly afterwards she found herself haunted by the sight of burned bodies.

From that she began to imagine herself caught in the fire and burning alive. Her next phase was to visualize her friends getting burned.

Then, in her persistent efforts to put those fantasies out of her mind, she succeeded so well that she not only forgot the fire, but she also forgot her own identity and that of those around her. The police found her wandering around the streets, lost and dazed. They took her to the hospital.

There, after a few days of care as an amnesia victim, her mind was completely cleared.

To many of the victims who have since been dismissed from the hospital and well enough to go to work again, the most exasperating aftermath of their horrible experience is the way their friends, relatives and neighbors seem to take it for granted that their minds will eventually crack from the horrors they have seen. They claim this is harder to bear than the pain of their burns.

BASIS FOR PREMISE

The two psychiatrists make it clear that there is no basis for such a premise on the part of the friends by stating:

"How great the repercussions of the disaster finally will be in terms of disintegrations of families, in which a father or mother has been lost; in terms of morbid pre-occupation of wives, or husbands who have lost a spouse; and in terms of readjustment of those who have been crippled—can be told only after the third phase (the follow-up system) of our psychiatric work has been concluded.

"We do know already, however, that there need be no fear of the outbreak of acute mental diseases or permanent breakdowns.

"Brain fever" and violent mental derangement may occur in story books and in the fancy of those who enjoy frightening rumors, but they are not part of the true consequences of the emotional shocks of disaster."

Rendering psychological assistance to those recovering from severe burns presented numerous problems such as:

When should they be told about having lost a husband or wife? How much should they be told of their own injuries?

WISE TO WITHHOLD

It was found wise to withhold all news from the victims until, physically, they seemed ready to take the shock.

Much effort was made by the hospital to find just the right moment at which to give the tragic news to the patients.

As soon as they showed signs of concern of the fate of their companies it seemed advisable to replace uncertainty with exact knowledge, even though the latter was painful.

And the knowledge was always imparted by persons whom the patients trusted most and with whom they felt most secure.

There was a period of from two to three weeks in which even severely bereaved persons showed very little concern over their bereavement, as though they were able to postpone dealing with the tragedy.

It appeared only at the horizon of their consciousness, to be banned again until the patient could handle it without being overwhelmed by emotions.

A sense of pride and of the necessity to keep up one's morale quite evidently pervaded the attitude of most of the patients.

BUT NOT ESCAPED

This self-restraint was so striking that for a while it seemed as though there were only minor psychological repercussions of this disaster.

It appears, however, that grief, depression, discouragement and anxiety could be postponed but not escaped.

About three weeks after the accident, it was observed that a good many patients were depressed. Some of them were hesitant to leave the hospital and asked assistance from a nerve specialist.

Others wished to leave the hospital prematurely, being apprehensive they would display excitement and mental upsets before strangers.

Some of them communicated with the hospital after returning home and reported their readjustment very difficult. It became more and more clear that a detailed and careful follow-up service is necessary with a searching inquiry into the various ways in which patients are able to handle their loss, whether it be decrease in physical attractiveness or efficiency, or whether it be the death of a loved one in the fire.

And thus was born a new idea in psychiatry, which may heal many people with greater expediency and save them thousands of hours in mental anguish, while restoring them to a state of economic efficiency.

Tomorrow's article will reveal more details of the research made by another group of doctors in the study of Coconut Grove aftermath.

Zion Youth, JVA Gather Books for Men on Subs

Plans to provide books, magazines, games and other recreation for crews of submarines, minesweepers, PT boats and other small craft, are being extended by the AZA, youth organization of the B'nai B'rith under direction of Louis E. Sidman of Boston, New England, New York and eastern Canada director.

Scores of AZA members are affiliated with the Junior Victory Army and will take part in the program expected to have national backing.

The first chapter of the AZA, the Cambridge unit, has already "adopted" a new submarine and will be followed by others, including the Medford unit.

The Cambridge members sponsored a dance at a downtown Boston hotel to raise funds. It then built a box to fit an available place in the submarine and after a poll of the crew's wishes, filled the box with books, magazines, playing cards and chess and checker sets.

The donors later received a picture of the submarine autographed by the crew and a letter from the commanding officer which said:

"The various games will afford many hours of relaxation under circumstances which would become very trying without these sets."

There are 350 chapters of the AZA and B'nai B'rith girls under Sidman's supervision with a membership of 6000 about equally divided between boys and girls ranging from 14 to 21.

The idea for the "ship service" plan originated with Capt. Elliott A. Niles of the Army when he was director of the war activities of the B'nai B'rith here. It was launched when this organization "adopted" one of the newest and largest battleships. This plan, too, is being carried out on a national scale.

In addition to the recreations aboard the small craft, the AZA is expected to provide special entertainments when their "adopted" crews get shore leave.

IT'S MOLASSES MONTH

Add Muffins to Menu

By MARTHA LEE

IF YOUR SUGAR BOWL is embarrassingly low this month because the Christmas season was too much for it, make January, 1943, a molasses month. Take a tip from the pioneer homemaker who relied on the sweetness of molasses for her quick breads when she had little or no sugar in her cupboard.

Besides sweetness, quick breads made with molasses have other virtues for cooks to sing about. "Slow as molasses in January" doesn't apply to the way Molasses Muffins and Molasses Nut Bread will disappear from the table. They won't be sticking around long with that good lasses flavor baked into every crumb.

MOLASSES MUFFINS

2 cups sifted enriched flour 1 egg
2 tsp. baking powder ½ cup molasses
½ tsp. soda milk or ½ tsp. ginger buttermilk
1 tsp. salt 2 tbsp. melted shortening
2 tbsp. sugar

Sift together flour, baking powder, soda, salt, ginger and sugar. Beat egg. Add molasses, sour milk, and shortening. Blend thoroughly and add to flour mixture. Stir only enough to moisten flour. Fill greased muffin pans 2/3 full. Bake in moderately hot oven (400 deg. F.) 20 to 25 minutes. Makes about 1½ dozen 2-inch muffins.

Molasses Muffins are excellent for dessert. Serve hot and spread with butter or fortified margarine for distinctive eating. On special occasions bring them to the table as miniature puddings with a smooth orange sauce poured over individual helpings.

ORANGE SAUCE

1 cup granulated sugar ½ tsp. butter or margarine
2 tbsp. cornstarch 2 tbsp. grated orange rind
½ tsp. salt juice
1½ cups boiling water 2 tbsp. lemon juice

Combine sugar, cornstarch, grated orange rind and salt in a saucepan. Add the boiling water gradually, stirring constantly. Simmer over low heat for 5 minutes, or until clear and thickened, while stirring constantly. Then stir in remaining ingredients. Serve hot with cottage pudding, bread pudding, etc. Makes 2½ cups sauce, or 8 servings.

MOLASSES NUT BREAD

3 cups sifted ¾ cup chopped enriched nuts
flour 1 egg
3 tsp. baking powder 1 cup milk
¾ cup molasses
3 tbsp. melted shortening

Sift flour, baking powder, and salt together. Add nuts. Beat egg, add milk, molasses and shortening. Add to dry ingredients and stir only until flour is moistened. Bake in greased loaf pan in moderate oven (350 deg. F.) 1 hour. Cool before slicing. Makes 1 loaf.

Slices of Molasses Nut Bread spread with cream cheese will end any meal in a tasty manner. They are good, too, made up as sandwiches for a box lunch.

For fairy-like lightness and fluffiness, mix your molasses breads with a gentle hand. One can't talk of flavor and sweetness these days without adding a comment on the nutritiousness of good-to-eat breads, for somehow foods that taste good are also good for you.

MOLASSES BRAN MUFFINS

2 tbsp. shortening 1 cup sifted enriched flour
½ cup sugar 1 tsp. baking powder
1 egg, beaten ½ tsp. baking soda
1 cup sour milk ½ tsp. salt
3 tbsp. molasses
2 cups bran cereal

Work shortening with a spoon until creamy and fluffy; then add sugar gradually, while continuing to work with a spoon until light. Add egg, milk and molasses; beat well. Add bran cereal, and allow to stand 20 minutes to soak up moisture. Sift together flour, baking powder, baking soda, and salt, and add to bran mixture. Fill well-greased or oiled muffin pans 2-3 full, and bake in a moderately hot oven of 400 deg. F. for 25 minutes. Make 14 to 16 2½-inch muffins.

Fashion

THOUGH THIS is meant to be a beauty hint by the pretty radio actress, Marjorie Bell, it is at the same time a fashion picture, to our experienced old eyes, because it happens that Marjorie is wearing THE blouse fashion of the season! It's all very well that she declares herewith that a pumice stone will remove roughness on the elbows, and will also soften pump bumps to the point where wear and tear on stockings will be saved, but our attention is for the adorable drawstring blouse. It's a bemberg sheer, comes in pastels, and doesn't stay a minute on the counters.—ANNICE BRINK.

GREET SPRING IN GAY SUIT OF GRAY; THEY'RE ALLURING!

By BETTINA BEDWELL

THERE'S a formula for looking like the top of the morning this coming spring. It is one that will make folks turn and stare after you, not because you look like something out of the circus, but because you look as fresh and "right" as a flower in the sun. This formula is also practical, which is enough for any formula. It is the gray suit, made of flannel-like smooth wool, in a clear shade of the color, and with touches of crisp white, and a white or colorful hat.

I have seen hundreds of these suits in the best collections, and Miss Dulin has sketched one from Charles Armour to give you the idea. Well-tailored, and made of light gray mixed smooth wool, the suit has a fitted jacket with set-in vertical pockets, and rather wide revers. Starched white pique covers the revers and collar. It's removable for easy laundering. The skirt has pleats at the front. A pillowbox of black felt is trimmed with white silk fringe in tiers.

'Special Treatment Cream' Rare Bargain for Only 2 Weeks

By ARLINE GOULD

THERE WAS A GAL named Ninon de L'Enclos whose fame really has never been equalled... and her beauty was said to have lasted amazingly long. One of the legends about her includes a recipe for "Crème de L'Enclos," which goes something like this: New milk, ½ pint, lemon juice, ¼ ounce, white brandy, ½ ounce, boil, skim clear all scum.

It probably would have made a better potable than beauty aid... and it's just too bad that Ninon isn't around when a "special treatment cream" is almost literally handed out to a clamoring feminine public. Because she'd have kept that 20-year-old roseleaf complexion just that much longer!

We say it's practically handed out... because nowadays sales are almost prohibitive events to the cosmetic people, what with scarcity of ingredients and a consequent rise of price... but for the next two weeks you may have the $3 size of a famous cream (4 ounces) for $1.50.

It is an amazing cream... oxycholesterol (an exact approximation of the oil your skin had plenty of when you were sixteen, but lacks right now) on a base of rarest and finest oils... rich as any cream possibly can be... yet, 15 minutes after application, leaves a skin moist and supple, and without a greasy look!

This alone would be enough to endear the cream to most women, even if it were not a miracle-aid against throat crepiness, eye lines, and any of the age-marks that show on a dry, sensitive skin.

You may as well really do this cream justice... and apply it the way the famous scientifically-trained Englishwoman who made it decreed. "Nibble" a little of it on (before or after a rich night cream) around the eyes, on the forehead, throat, every night... and all over the face at least three or four times a week.

No message is necessary with this extraordinary cream, which is completely hand-made, hand-whipped, and hand-packed... tie that in a machine-age world!

To learn about this unusual and rare special... a $3 size "treatment cream" for $1.50... for the next two weeks only, phone Arline Gould, LIBerty 4000, except the week-end, or write, care of the Boston Evening American, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

SUNDAY ADVERTISER

After the War---What?

VICE-PRESIDENT WALLACE, who has been speaking frequently of late regarding the pattern of the postwar world, is beginning to get down to details.

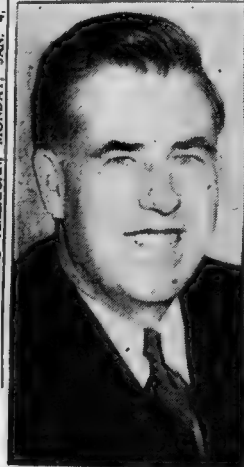

It is true his latest speech disclaimed his present ability to "blueprint all the details."

But he referred frankly to "the worldwide new democracy we of the United Nations hope to build."

That is certainly starry-eyed generalization, for which Mr. Wallace has somewhat of a penchant.

But he got down to a pretty specific case of "blueprinting" when he went on to say that one of the functions of this "new democracy" would be to provide a system of "supervision, or at least inspection of the school systems of Germany and Japan."

Of course, the asserted purpose of this is one with which there can be no fault—the purpose, as Mr. Wallace says, "to undo so far as possible the diabolical work of Hitler and the Japanese war lords in poisoning the minds of the young."

VICE-PRES. WALLACE
Blueprints Peace

But it is to be wondered how "democratic" such a program of ideological invasion and subjugation could ever be, however idealistic it might be.

And it is especially to be wondered how "democratic" that program would be in its specific application to Germany, when it is considered that the dominant coercive force over a conquered Germany is likely to be imposed by Soviet Russia.

Soviet Russia has certainly made a most admirable defense of herself in this war. Stalin and his armies have surely made a most welcome diversion of German forces incalculably beneficial to the United Nations, including the United States.

BUT Soviet Russia is not democratic, and it does not disparage her magnificent war effort to say so.

Soviet Russia is Communistic, as it is her choice and her right to be.

And it may be accepted as a fact that any country which Soviet Russia ever rules or dominates will be Communistic very shortly, and its schools will teach Communism to the exclusion of everything else, and particularly to the exclusion of our American concepts of democracy.

In point of fact, Soviet Russia has not always waited to rule or dominate a country to inject and to teach Communism.

Through Communist parties organized in various countries, not excepting the United States, it has diligently sought to nourish Communism in schools—openly where it was acceptable, and covertly where it was unacceptable.

In the past, our American schools have had to contend with and resist the "poisoning of the minds of the young" by Communists as well as by Fascists—and in fact had much more of a Communist problem in that respect than a Fascist problem.

The American people have never been able to make any favorable comparisons between Communism and Fascism, and in all truth have never been able to see much difference between them.

So the American people do not intend that their association with Soviet Russia shall create a license for Communism in our schools after the war—any more than it creates a license for attempted Americanization of Russia.

HOW FAR does Mr. Wallace think the American people will go in supporting a postwar program by Soviet Russia to impose Communism on the conquered countries?

Mr. Wallace mistakes the mind and temper of the American people if he thinks they want a "worldwide new democracy" that would really be international COMMUNISM.

The American people do not agree with Mr. Wallace that the American Bill of Rights is obsolete.

They are not likely to agree with him, if he suggests a postwar program of counteracting one ideological poison with another.

Mr. Wallace should know, and should be made to understand, that America is in this war for one purpose only—to PRESERVE American democracy.

We recognize that Fascism of the German, Italian and Japanese brands must be destroyed to achieve that purpose.

But we do not intend to be an agent and a party to the foisting of Communism upon the conquered.

When love is kind,
Cheerful and free
Love's sure to find
Welcome from me.
But when love brings
Heartache and pangs,
Tears and such things
Love may go hang.

—TOM MOORE.

MR. MOORE, as expressed above, had the right idea. Some people may question that it is possible for a person to fall out of love at will. However, there is a cure for love as all experienced persons know... Children of happily married parents make the best husbands and wives. So states an authority on matrimony. Why should I argue with this expert? My parents were happily married for more than 40 years... In London a woman arrested for bigamy, robbery and attempted murder proudly told reporters "I do not drink or smoke"... Dispatch states a 40-year-old woman of St. Louis has married a lad of 21. This seems to be taking the "life begins at 40" idea seriously... Suggested John Dannhorn: "Try to understand the reasons why the man you love is doing the things you think are wrong." And William Marsden advised: "The only way to help a dominant man who is down is to convince him that he is merely slowed up and not beaten."

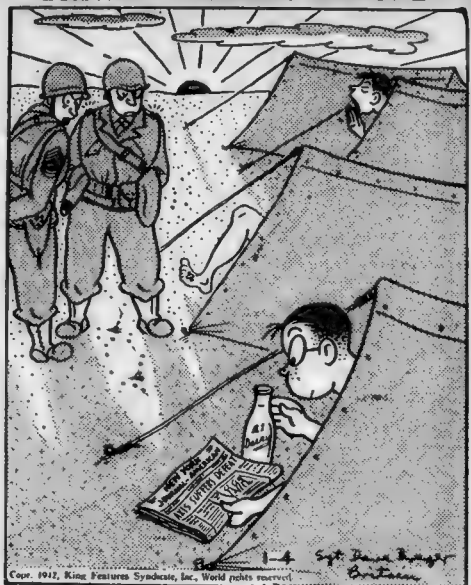

QUERIES FROM CLIENTS.

Q—Remember when they had pictures on theater curtains? And what picture on what curtain do you remember best? A—Only picture theater curtain I can remember is that of the Montauk Theater in Brooklyn, which had a picture of the field rounding the turn in a Roman chariot race...

Q—My husband says if he can't answer any question on the sports of the past 40 years you can ask, he will buy me a new hat. Go to it, Eddie. A—Ah, another smart fellow! We'll fix him. You'll be wearing a new hat tomorrow. Ask him in what year the race horse Hickory Jim was a 2-year-old. Also, request him to state what major league ball club had a "business man" ballplayer; that is, a man who played with the team only during his four weeks' vacation. This man played in many major league games and was a very good infielder... Q—Are the children born of older parents usually the smartest? A—They usually are. Take Mary Christine Dunne, who at age of 2 years and 4 months, had a vocabulary of 3800 words and could sing more than a hundred songs from memory. When Mary was born, her father was 43 years old and her mother 39.

PLEASE NOTE: "Listen, Stupid," writes a Chicago admirer, "will you please stop saying Julius Caesar was born in July. When Caesar was born there was no such month as July." I can't remember saying Julius Caesar was born in July, but he was born in the month that is now called July... "So Pittsburgh is boasting it has the only cross-eyed cat in the country," writes a Detroit. "Isn't that just like Pittsburgh? The fact is that all Siamese cats are cross-eyed and there are thousands of them in the United States"... Some soldiers' wives haven't heard from their husbands in five months. This doesn't seem right. If the soldier hasn't time to write, it seems that somebody should keep his wife informed as to whether or not he is still alive and well.

SIDELIGHTS: G. A. McLane of Oklahoma City has put his popularity with the female sex in extreme jeopardy by stating: "The modern gadgets provided as aids for housekeeping leave the Mrs. as fresh as a daisy after her day's housework and she is all ready to drag her tired husband's quaking carcass off to some midnight shindig"... "Now that it has been learned that Helen is low as a first name for film stars, past and present, what name is tops?" asks a Bostonian. I would say more film stars have had the first name of Dorothy than any other. After that Mary... Writes an astrological expert: "If parents would pray to have their children born under the sign of Aquarius and never to have a child born under the sign of Leo it would result in a much better world." This crack at the July and summer-born is the unkindest cut of all.

PASSING BY: Harry Cross, Veteran sport scribe. He is from Waterbury, Ct. Which town has also given the country columnists Louis Sobol and Dan Parker. And is also the birthplace of Rosalind Russell, Fannie Hurst, Noel Coward. Her best story was "Humoresque." Was Fannie who first said: "Everything I like is either illegal, immoral or fattening." Miss Hurst manages to keep her figure streamlined to glamour girl proportions. Shows what a strong character can do for a woman... Mary Ann Mercer, Pint-size singer. Miss Mercer was once a leading candidate for the presidency of that organization of cute little tricks known as "The Little But, Oh, My! Club." At present the L. B. O. M. Club is trying to interest leading stylists to design an evening gown in which a short girl will not look as if she were wearing her mother's.

STATES JACK HILLIARD: "So one woman recently told you she does her housework in two hours. That's not bad for a woman. Her husband must have taught her efficiency. I own an auto court of seven cabins and do all my own housework. Takes me just two hours every morning for the seven cabins. And I make the beds right, too; that is, the sheets will not crowd up around your neck as they will when the bed is made by the average woman."

First Lady CITES NEED FOR GUARDING CHILDREN'S HEALTH IN WAR

By Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt

WASHINGTON, SUNDAY—The January magazines, as a whole, it seems to me, provide us with a great deal of interesting reading. There are several articles which are particularly interesting to people with children. Among them, John K. Springer's article, "The Battle for Child Health," shows that our birth rate is going up in this country and makes some valuable suggestions on how to meet the problem of keeping our children well, in spite of the lack of doctors on the home front.

Miss Katharine Lenroot, head of the U. S. Children's Bureau, writes a few words of introduction to this article. Dr. John W. Studebaker, U. S. commissioner of education, writes a few words to introduce an article by Raymond Nathan on the way our schools are mobilizing to prepare our youth "for the realities of the world in which they find themselves."

David Cushman Coyle, who is to me one of the stimulating writers on economic questions, has an article on "Planning a World of Plenty." In it he points out that we are learning things in these hard war years that may be valuable in teaching us how to live better in the future.

One of my hopes is that, because we are forced to do certain things now, we may find them really interesting, pleasant and worth doing at all times. We may become better neighbors and live together more happily in our communities because of what we learn in this period.

Miss Dorothy Thompson has sent me the "Christmas Declaration," which was released on Monday, Dec. 28, to the newspapers. It is signed by loyal Americans of German descent and addressed to the German people. It is a fine appeal, and we hope that it may reach many of the people now under the Nazi heel in Germany and make them realize that there is faith in this country that some of the fine German qualities we knew in the past still exist among the people there.

In the Washington Post yesterday there was an editorial addressed to the American people, which I hope will be widely read. It spoke of the fact that we had allowed mob violence to increase in two or three of our states, and one of our minority groups had been five times the victim of this type of mass murder.

It quoted Virginian Dabney, writing currently, and pointed out that three of these lynchings had occurred where a man in this minority group had announced that he would run for office. The editorial is one that I think all of us should read and take to heart, for we cannot be trusted to deal justly with the rest of the world if we do not deal justly at home.

BOSTON after DARK

By GEORGE HOLLAND

MONDAY MORNING MUSINGS: The ladies probably will bless the first group of daring sisters to appear in public in woolen hose ... Just one gal braving the desperately clung-to tradition that milady's nether limbs must be sheathed in silk, nylon or an approximate facsimile thereof, might not be enough ... But if a bevy of beauties should break through the unwritten law and wear woolen or cotton stockings, a trend might set in ... Something will have to be done about it, at any rate ... Nylon is well-nigh unpurchasable, we are told.

GLORIA SWANSON IS SO INDESCRIBABLY different from this column's preconceived and faulty impression of the most glamorous star of them all (Gloria, of course) that we are speechless ... Imagine La Swanson living in a single hotel room, without retinue, without even a maid, and with the services only of a part-time secretary ... Imagine the great La Swanson fighting this war according to her own lights, socking all she earns in war bonds and war charities and living virtually—for her—in penury ... What a lady!

NONE HAS EVER IMPUGNED Miss Swanson's intelligence ... She was so mentally able that she separated the Hollywood tycoons from 30 G's a week in years when income taxes were small ... Through her reign as Hollywood's first marquise (for whatever the title was) Gloria behaved with a minimum of affectation and a maximum of sincerity ... Her lovely tip-tilted nose never poised a lorgnette even, and if ever a nose was designed to wear a lorgnette—it's Gloria's ... She was never a snob ... She was always a good workman, and now in "Three Curtains," Miss Swanson is proving she can act—act for the theater, we mean.

YOUR REPORTER CANNOT RECALL a more pleasant Sunday cocktail hour than the one passed yesterday with Miss Swanson while sipping cold drinks ... Douglas Gregory, probably the most handsome actor on the stage, was present too ... Doug is acting in "Spring Again," and many Bostonians remember him favorably as the proprietor of a summer theater on the North Shore a pair of seasons ago ... We should hasten to insert the statement that the Gregory-Swanson friendship is thoroughly platonic, and based on mutual admiration and similar philosophies of Americanism ... It was enlightening to hear, at first hand, how thoroughly America-conscious are many of our leading players of the stage and screen.

SOMEWHAT INARTICULATE to date, a sizable segment of the Actors' Equity Ass'n membership will be found to be 100 per cent anti-Communist when the showdown comes ... One grasped this important point early in a three-handed conversation in Miss Swanson's Boston sitting-room ... Of Miss Swanson's career, some doubt of its immediate future prevails ... Gloria is happy in her present arrangement, which finds her co-starring with Francis Lederer in three one-acters ... But she does not trust the vehicle as a means of braving the Broadway Dawn Patrol ... As who isn't? She is seeking a good play, and it need not be a "vehicle."

ONE OVER LIGHTLY: A little late, here is the "inside" of the "play-within-a-play" episode that sent a capacity audience at the Plymouth Theater New Year's Eve into a convulsion of laughter ... Suddenly, in the middle of Act 2, Phil Stevenson, who has an important role which runs all through "Spring Again," slumped over in his chair on stage and remained in a seeming state of collapse ... It being New Year's Eve, the incident produced a roar of laughter ... The above-mentioned Mr. Gregory was playing a scene downstage left with Grace George, the star, at the time.

BEING AWARE OF Mr. Stevenson's habit of sobriety, Douglas was alarmed ... He strode over to the other actor, picked him up and carried him offstage ... After ministrations by other members of the cast, Mr. Stevenson came to ... He was too ill to continue playing, however ... It was impossible to substitute an understudy, because Phil already had appeared in the character ... So how was it solved? ... The cast simply ignored the missing actor and the unspoken lines ... The Stevenson part was skipped—that's all ... And the play marched blithely and comically to its final curtain with none—but the actors—apparently the wisest.

GEORGE MONTGOMERY HEADS FOR MERCHANT MARINE

By Louella O. Parsons

Copyright, 1942, by International News Service

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 4—The next one of our popular young leading men to say au revoir to Hollywood is George Montgomery. He has already made arrangements to go into the Merchant Marine, but before Orge leaves us he has a movie job that is sufficiently important for him to finish. He will be starred in "Amber's Moon," an original story by Leonard Lee. The story is that of a bombardier who lands in Germany and meets a German girl who is sick and weary of the Nazi tyranny, and through her some of the inside workings of the Nazi government are shown. Robert Foy directs George.

Wonder what all of George's brothers and sisters will do (he has eleven) when he goes to work for Uncle Sam? He has turned over most of his salary to them.

SERGEANT GENE AUTRY, cowboy number 1, spent three hours Saturday talking with Hal Wallis at Warner Brothers studio about playing in "This Is the Army." Gene will have one of the featured roles and will have a chance to keep up the good work of appealing to the youth of the country. It is possible he will also do a service picture for his own studio, Republic, although this has not been definitely determined. Although the government does not easily grant permission for actors to make pictures once they are in the service, naturally any movie with a propaganda message is important.

NATALIE DRAPER

a propaganda message

THEY LIKE Esther Williams at MGM and think the pretty little swimming champ is really going places on the screen. Her first movie, "Andy Hardy's Double Life," was a trial balloon to see if she was honest-to-goodness movie material with a camera personality. Well, the girl made good. So good, in fact, she will be starred in "Bathing Beauty," a water extravaganza about a traveling swimming troupe.

JACK BENNY'S radio nag, Leona, is getting fan mail, with over 200 fans writing to inquire solicitously if the swayed-back hay-eater had recovered from losing her footing on Hollywood boulevard. Particularly interested are the gals named "Leona" from all over the country—some are flattered, and others peeved, that their name has been taken in vain. Believe it or not, but a firm in Sioux City, Ia., sent a contraption called a "kew-kicker" for use in easing Leona gets balky. And a fan writes: "Leona sounds like she might have formerly belonged to Bing Crosby's famous stable of non-winners."

CHATTER IN HOLLYWOOD: Don't be surprised if lovely Natalie Draper—and for my money she is one of the very prettiest girls in this town—and Merrill Pye, MGM music and art director, get married. They are together constantly and Merrill, since his broken romance with Eleanor Powell a year ago, has paid scant attention to any other girl. Natalie, broken-hearted when her marriage to Tom Brown went on the rocks, seems happy with Merrill and, well, this looks like the real thing.

A LINE OR TWO: Talk about love at first sight! Well, Lona Gilbert in Maggie Ettinger's office and Charles Kostelak, associated with a flying school here, were married at Las Vegas. They met just two weeks ago ... Harry Cohn hasn't yet heard from Penny Singleton whether she is returning to make the next "Blondie" movie. Her last word was she would arrive here Feb. 15, and since Columbia has waited for three months she was told that date was too late. So, now the next movie is up to her ... A letter from Pvt. Orey-Kelly from St. Petersburg, Fla., had me in stitches. Orey says when he comes back home he will be able to apply for general housework. He says he is in the zero class and can't go much lower. What about putting him in the camouflage department? He is one of the finest artists in Hollywood and his paintings are the envy of everyone who has seen them.

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD collected at random: Morley Mars is co-singer, David Schulberg these days; and Peter Viertel, Solka's son, is spending his time with Mrs. Budd; Alan Curtis forgetting his troubles with Belita, the cute little ice-skater; wonder if it is true Susan Peters will marry Richard Quine? Maria Montez's new honey is Kurt Kruger; Mary Hanrahan, Edgar Bergen's former personal manager, is back in town and she has been at the Beverly Hills Hotel with Edgar several times at the cocktail hour. She is now a buyer for a New York store; Ginny Simms and the good-looking orchestra leader, Johnny Long, have discovered each other; Olivia De Havilland, positively radiant, dining at the Brown Derby with Capt. John Huston and the Viceroy Hustons. As we originally predicted it won't be long before John is free and then there will be wedding bells for him and Olivia; Lynn Merrick, the little Republic starlet, has a beau in the meat packing business. For Christmas he sent her a ham and for New Year's the side of a beef. That's a lady any of us would like to know; Tyrone Power reports today to the Marine base at San Diego.

22 Famous Whirl Dancer In Latin Quarter Show

Gloria Gilbert, "Famous Whirl Dancer," who heads the Latin Quarter's show, is the young lady who proved that 50,000,000 Frenchmen can be wrong.

When the toe dancer captivated Paris in the Folies Bergere, they swore she wore a belt with an electric push button that spun her into her dizzy whirls.

The toast of two continents, Gloria can explain to the relief of one and all who have been wondering just how a dancer can spin 400 twirls a minute without getting dizzy and toppling over.

I ain't got over it yet! Meenin' the nice, orderly crowd I had in my Grill for New Year's Eve. I wuz filled up alright—every seat wuz taken but I took good care to see that there wuz no crowdin' an' jammin' an' that everyone had plenty of room. Every customer wuz nice an' the general decorum wuz excellent witch is something to say I think! Well—life goes on as usual in my Grill an' fer that reason I got a wonderful new show witch will feature Leonardo an' Zola who is widout a doubt the greatest pair of Cuban naniogo dancers the town has ever seen! They is super sensational an' actually they belong in a big Broadway revue. Then I got the Sheppard Sisters witch is a cute pair of acrobatic dancers wat's very, very good. Tiny Sinclair is a regular panick as usual wid a lotta new laffs an' gags for 1943. An' too, Billie Nightingale, what passed up a Broadway show to dance wid me. I made a few New Year's resolutions witch includes me makin' more efforts at helpin' the war effort in my small way an' doin' my best to keep everybody well entertained an' happy as well as helpin' ta keep up the morale of the hundreds of service men I meet every week in my Grill. Rommel must be almost in the pink for our Patriot's Day march the way he's been scamperin' across the sand lots. Drop in tonight at Ort's, 25 Essex Street, in downtown Boston. Advt.

Smart Set Functions

By BETTY ALDEN

BEFORE RETURNING to Hamp after their long fuel-saving vacation, Smith girls in and around Boston will be guests of honor Saturday afternoon at a tea given by Peggy Breed, Smith '41, at her home in Cambridge.

Peggy and a group of her sister alums of '41 and '42 who have what it takes to hold down responsible jobs, will be on hand to chatter over the teacups with the undergrads and give them a good idea of what to expect in the way of worthwhile careers once they win a college degree.

Post deb Peggy is teaching English at the Shipley School in Bryn Mawr, Pa. Her road to success in the teaching profession was paved with academic honors both at college at the May School from which she graduated in 1937 as a member of Cum Laude Society. This society, founded over 30 years ago, corresponds in secondary schools to Phi Beta Kappa at college. During her freshman year at Smith, Peggy was presented to society at a large tea given by her parents, Prof. and Mrs. Stephen A. Breed, in their spacious home on Brattle st.

DEBUTANTE ALICE STETSON KELLEY of Newtonville has her heart set on attending the Smith tea as well as a merry skating party that evening at The Country Club. But she has her fingers crossed in the face of uncertain wartime train schedules for she is returning that day from a vacation jaunt to Harrisburg, Pa., and doesn't know if she will arrive in time for either party.

Stets, as Alice Stetson is more intimately known to her sister debs and freshman classmates at Smith, is the daughter of Mrs. Winship Clapp Kelley of Newtonville. She leaves tomorrow morning to spend the rest of the week visiting her classmate, Frances EVELYN CHASE of Brookline, bride-to-be of Roger Wolcott Converse, Jr., Yale student.

Scheffer, who will probably return with her to stay with Mrs. Kelley till college opens.

The skating (with a question mark) party at The Country Club is being given for two of this year's debs, Sally Arnold and Sally Meigs, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Warren D. Arnold and Dr. and Mrs. Joe Vincent Meigs of Chestnut Hill.

With an eye to the caprices of the weather man the engraved invitations actually bear a question mark after the word skating, but suggest that there will be dancing instead should the date fall in the midst of a January thaw.

POST DEB EVELYN CHASE is starting the New Year by wearing a sparkling engagement ring as a token of her betrothal to Roger Wolcott Converse Jr., son of the Roger Converse of Brookline and Marion.

The bride-to-be is the daughter of Mr. Talbot Chase and the late Mrs. Chase of Brookline and Manchester. She made her debut last year following her graduation from the May School and Masters School at Dobbs Ferry.

'SPRING AGAIN'-'THREE CURTAINS'--'TOBACCO ROAD' HOLD RIALTO SPOTLIGHT

Continuing

PLYMOUTH—“SPRING AGAIN,” with Grace George and C. Aubrey Smith in the roles they created in the Broadway production of the amusing comedy by Bertram Bloch and Isabel Leighton, tonight begins its final week here. The plot is concerned with a husband's monomania for preserving the memory of his famous father's military exploits and a wife's depleted patience and eventual resourcefulness in freeing the venerable gentleman of his phobia.

MAJESTIC—“THREE CURTAINS,” a group of three one-act plays starring Francis Lederer and Gloria Swanson, begins a second and final week tonight. The one-acters are George Bernard Shaw's “The Man of Destiny,” Sir James Barrie's “The Old Lady Shows Her Medals” and Arthur Wing Pinero's “Playgoers.” Harold J. Kennedy has staged the plays and also appears in the supporting company. Perry Watkins did the sets.

COLONIAL—“TOBACCO ROAD,” longest running play in the history of the American theater, tonight commences the second and final week of its local engagement. The play is about a shiftless, comic, pathetic family of Georgia crackers with the accent on its stubborn head of the family, Jeeter Lester, whom John Barton portrays with exceeding skill. The play, which was adapted from Erskine Caldwell's novel by Jack Kirkland, has proved to be a highly profitable, enduring venture for Kirkland who also is its producer. Included in the cast are Sara Perry, Vinnie Phillips, Edwin Walter, Lillian Arl, Norman Budd and others.

January 18

SHUBERT—“ZIEGFELD POLKES,” the new production starring Iona May, Milton Berle and Arthur Hays Sulzberger, will have its premiere performance here under the sponsorship of Billie Burke and the Shuberts. Shubert in association with Alfred Blomquist and Lou Walters, John Murray Anderson is general director. John T. McManus will serve as musical director. Watson Barratt is doing the scenery and Miss Walter the costumes. Featured members of the cast are Jack Cole and his dancers, Nadine and the Gals, Tommy Wander, the Vikings, the Jamnays, Jerry Bergen, Gus Ryan, the Raychambers, Jack MacKenzie, Dean March, Joe Knoxville, Betty Keane and others.

January 15

JORDAN HALL—RUTH DRAPER, celebrated American actress who refuses to be described as a monologist or a dancer, returns to give the last performance of her famous character sketches as one of the attractions in the Aaron Richmond celebrity series on Friday and Saturday evenings and Saturday afternoon, Jan. 16 and 17.

January 22

FEARBY PLAYHOUSE—“JULIUS CAESAR,” with George Kyrle as Mark Antony, James Richie as Brutus, Bruns Burgess as Pompey, and the company of Caesar and Constantine Pappas as Caesar in the Tributary Theater of Boston revival of Shakespeare's historical drama. Elton Dwyer is staging the production. Lillian Condon, Robert Hill and Estelle Bowdell head the supporting cast.

Navy League Lauds ‘Stand By For Action’

The Navy League of the United States has commended Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer for “the excellence of its timely, stirring and stimulating production, ‘Stand By For Action,’ which presents with considerable fidelity the skill, courage and tradition of our Navy.” The Navy also cited this film as one that “ought to inspire and fortify every man and officer in the Navy and one that will have a profound effect on civilian morale, as well.

“Stand By For Action,” starring Robert Taylor, Charles Laughton and Brian Donlevy, is now showing on Loew's State and Orpheum screens.

Mike Sacks Plus Howard Queens

Slap-happy comedy and streamlined charmers combine to make the Old Howard's first 1943 stage show something to cheer about.

On the one hand there are the comicolities of that favorite clown of the circuit, Mike Sacks, aided by a brace of dependable zanies, and on the other, the pulchritude of such persuasive burlesque queens as Charlotte Vogue, Winnie Garrett, Frances White and the uniformly eye-taking 30 dancing girls of the chorus.

A generous dash of specialty acts pep up the proceedings, specifically the famed Siamese Twins, Lila and Jean Libby, acrobats; Carmelita Lopez, from down Mexico way; The Kemmys, comedy acrobats; Lord and Janice, ballet dancers; The Duvals, novelty jugglers, and Al and Connie Fanton, acrobatic tap dancers.

On the screen are Fred MacMurray-Rosalind Russell starring “Take a Letter, Darling,” and “The Lady Has Plans,” with Paulette Goddard and Ray Milland, as well as the usual newsreels and comedy shorts.

Ferrara to Battle Martin

TONY FERRARA, New York welterweight, apparently does not believe in territorial lines as he intends to insist that his bout with George Martin of the South End at the

GEORGIE MARTIN

Arena on Friday night be for the New England welterweight title. Ferrara has already fought a draw with Martin, and he believes he will be able to conquer the South End boxer.

Martin was a graduate of the All-America tournament, and went on to win the New England welterweight crown when he disposed of Zanelli in a recent bout in this city. Zanelli, like Ferrara, would like to get a crack at Martin with the championship at stake.

Zanelli, who was originally signed to meet Ferrara, was obliged to withdraw from the bout on account of an attack of boils. Martin was substituted.

Hatchet Men Have Target for Their Weapons

THE HATCHET MEN, who normally would be demanding the scalp of Denny Myers by this time in view of the collapse of the Boston College football team against Alabama and Holy Cross, are at a loss as to what to do in view of the fact the Eagles' coach is Navy bound, while there is not any certainty there will be football at the Heights next season.

The Boston College Athletic Department realized the danger of war when it signed Myers. His contract ran out with 1942. It only called for a modest amount of money as the air was filled with the possibilities of war at the time Myers signed up.

Myers is waiting for a call to report for active duty in the Navy. Like other sensible college coaches, Myers has concluded that college football as we have known it in recent years is over for the duration. The Boston College coach realizes the quicker the war is won the sooner the country will get back to normal and he is eager to do his part to accomplish this result.

Hatchet men have been stymied by Myers' Navy move. One cannot very well attack a man who is walking out of a coaching job to do his part for his country at a time of war.

The lot of a college football coach at the best is unsatisfactory. Alumni and student body always demand a winner. The coach who cannot deliver victories becomes the target for the hatchet men.

Carl Lucas Was Outstanding Athlete

CARL LUCAS, Boston College football player who suffered a broken leg in the Orange Bowl game, is an outstanding athlete. He played a fine game against Alabama up to the time of his injury. Lucas had prepared himself carefully for the Orange Bowl test by hard and systematic training.

Mike Holovak was another Boston College player who covered himself with glory. He proved he was entitled to the many All-America football ratings he received.

Boston College had a powerful attack, but it lacked a defense. It was unable in the Holy Cross and Alabama games to stop any kind of an enemy drive.

Random Shots at Target

TOM SHEHAN, racing steward at Rockingham Park and a feature sports writer, is in the Army. Tom is a private in the 173rd Field Artillery at Camp Gruber, Oklahoma. . . . Tom tried to enlist in various branches of the service. . . . He was unable to get placed in the spots he wished and so decided to try to work up from the ranks in the Army. . . . He will do so.

The racing commission will not delay in acting upon applications for horse and dog track dates. . . . Suffolk Downs is assured of 60 days of horse racing. . . . Wonderland Park will get 100 nights of dog racing, while Raynham and Dighton will each receive 50 nights of dog racing.

BRUINS, TORONTO TIE FOR LEAD

By the Associated Press

A pair of ties in last night's National Hockey League games produced a pair of deadlocks in the standings, with Boston and Toronto sharing first place once more and New York and Montreal keeping each other company in the cellar.

Toronto, after downing Montreal easily Saturday night and moving to the head of the list, could do no better than gain a 4-to-4 tie with the Canadiens in Sunday's affair and dropped back to join the Bruins, who increased their point collection by beating Detroit, 3 to 2.

At the same time the New York Rangers belted in three goals during a furious second period with the Chicago Hawks for a 3-to-3 scrimmage.

The Hawks' first goal came off the stick of Reg Bentley at 5:44 of the first period and was the 500th tally of the present campaign which now has passed the halfway mark in number of games played. To make the tally of special significance, he was assisted by brothers Max and Doug.

Another Hawk marker by Red Hamill in the first and one by Bill Thoms at the outset of the second made the score 3 to 0 against the Rangers before they started their onslaught.

Boston's triumph was the Bruins' first in eight games, although the Rossmen never slipped out of first place during their slump. Again it was Frankie Brimsek, their goal tender, who starred. He kicked out 33 shots during the encounter to only 13 for Johnny Mowers of the Red Wings.

Elmer Lach assisted on all four Montreal goals, two of which were punched in by Toe Blake. It was Blake who got the equalizer at 18:51 of the final semester.

Syl Apps was the big nose of the Toronto Leafs, being involved in three of their scores.

At the outset of the encounter Gordie Drillon was twice denied scores on technicalities by Referee Norm Lamport and the struggle was a heated one the remainder of the way.

Frank Buck, internationally known explorer, lecturer, author and screen star, now starring in the United Artists Picture "Jacare" at the Trans-Lux Theatre, consults John E. Warner.

Thousands of men have saved and improved their hair through the Warner method of treatment, but no case is ever accepted unless beneficial results are reasonably certain. AL MCCOY GETS TRANSFER TO CHAPEL HILL SCHOOL

By BILL GRIMES

Al McCoy, former Northeastern, Colby and Harvard football coach, will transfer from the Jacksonville, Fla., Naval Station to the Pre-Flight School at Chapel Hill, N. C., this week.

Navy fliers are "shoving off" in such number that the personnel of the athletic instructors had to be reduced . . . Al McCoy, Jr., has returned to West Point where he is a second classman.

Bob McLaughry, son of the Dartmouth coach, who was forced out of football during his freshman year at Hanover, had most of his teeth knocked out recently at Jacksonville when he was hit by a bat. He will receive his wings within a week . . . Young McLaughry is one of 18 Navy fliers selected for the Marine Air Corps.

Before the close of the 1942 season, Pres. Bob Quinn was advocating that the majors reduce their schedules to 140 games . . . With Joe Cronin on his way overseas and Freddie Corcoran in London, that loose-mouthed Greater Boston politician, who popped off recently in New York about the Red Sox manager and the P. G. A. promotional director, has his answer.

WARREN SPAHN IN ARMY

Warren Spahn, the Braves young southpaw, is in the Army and is stationed at Camp Chaffee, Arkansas . . . Louis R. Dubois, Rochester, N. H., has no time for small fry . . . He wanted to get some information of the Record-American Silver Skates Derby . . . So, he sent a postal card to Mr. William Randolph Hearst.

Jimmy Conroy, the former junior golf champion of the state, was home on a short furlough last week . . . He's now stationed in Connecticut . . . His brother, Dickie, who was John Ford's assistant at Blue Hill is in North Africa . . . But for the fact that the Eagles LOST to Holy Cross and Alabama, the B. C. Varsity Club would not have held its annual football banquet . . . The basketball squads of U. S. C. Oregon, Kansas and Wyoming didn't pay any attention to the ODT . . . They made the trip across the country to participate in the Madison Sq. Garden tournament.

Hamie Moore, the Bruins assistant trainer, is a good trouper . . . He has been ailing for more than a week but has carried on without a protest . . . Even modern hockey rinks are unhealthy places for anyone who is running a fever of over 100.

OLYMPICS BACK IN ACTION

The Olympics get back into action at the Garden this week, playing a two-game series with the Philadelphia Falcons, Friday and Saturday nights . . . Pat Egan, who tossed the boys around for a couple of years in the N. H. L., says that the Quebec Senior Hockey League is one of the fastest he has ever played in.

Ty Andersen of the Olympics was the only non-college man on the 1928 U. S. Olympic Club . . . When he reported for a tryout with the old Boston Tigers, Ty had rocker skates, which some member of his family must have brought over from Norway.

George Martin Subs For Ralph Zanelli

New England welterweight champion, George Martin, South End, filling in for Ralph Zanelli, will be making his first local appearance since capturing the title when he takes on Tony Ferrara, New York, in the 10-round feature of the Goodwin A. C. fistie festival at the Boston Arena, Friday night—actually a return bout.

Ferrara dropped split decisions to Steve Belloise and Tony Fernandez, South American champion. Promoter Rip Valenti will announce a supporting card shortly.

Freddie Archer, contender for the lightweight boxing championship of the world is now a seaman, second class, in the Seabees, U. S. naval construction battalion, newest branch of the Navy, at Camp Endicott, Davisville, R. I. Archer, 20, now a welterweight, beat the present lightweight titleholder, Beau Jack, in two fights in December, 1941.

New York Metropolitan champ in 1939 and Golden Gloves winner for two years, Archer has had six fights in Madison Square Garden, innade of fight success.

Ice Derby for All Amateurs

One question that keeps popping up over the years comes from youngsters who want to enter the famed Silver Skates Derby but who claim that they do not belong to any club.

This great winter skating classic which takes place at the Boston Garden Jan. 24 is open to every amateur in New England and there is no club affiliation needed.

Of course, many clubs from Boston, Providence, Fitchburg, North Adams and other cities enter entire clubs—that's perfectly all right but any individual can enter by just filling out the entry blank.

NO ENTRY FEE

There are no restrictions except that you must be an amateur. There is no entry fee, either. In fact only those 19 or over need a registration card and that can be secured by writing Lew Hall, secretary of the New England Skating Ass'n.

And that's all there is. Just fill out the blank, mail it in and Ben Levas and his Silver Skates Committee will take care of the rest. Meanwhile a good idea would be to continue taking advantage of the ice all over New England and get in plenty of skating. The Derby takes place two weeks from Sunday which doesn't leave much time.

If you want competition, to get a taste of the real thing there's the Metropolitan championships at Cunningham Park, Milton, a week from Sunday. There will be a series of speed races sponsored by the Bay State Skating Club headed by Alfred J. Broadhurst, president, and William McGrath, vice-president.

But don't delay filling out your Silver Skates blank.

Why not mail it today?

EARLY ENTRANTS

Early entries include: Raymond Pauley, Jamaica Plain; Louis Caiati, Medford; Al O'Connell, East Boston; Chester Wickens, Medford; Edwin Forrest, Jr., Wilmington; Kevin C. Kelly, Dorchester; Francis X. Veader, East Boston; Donald Le Blanc, Medford; William Sullivan, Arlington; Walter Duffy, Arlington; William L. McSweeney, Arlington; Marvin Kopelman, Newton and Carl T. Heyder, Medford.

A great many more are expected in within the next few days including one Walter Novak of the Olympic Skating Club. Novak is one of the greatest speed skaters in the East.

MEDFORD FIVE TIGHTENS GBI LOOP RACE

By MIKE GILLOOLY

Four unassisted goals by Ed Cahoon of Melrose and Arlington High School's upset at the hands of Cambridge Latin, 1 to 0, stole the schoolboy spotlight in the weekly meetings of the high school hockey leagues.

But another fact turned up at the Arena over the week-end which is bound to have a strong bearing on the Greater Boston loop standings.

For the first time this season, Medford High's potent squad displayed some of the strength that Coach Roger Prior predicted before the opening of the campaign.

Getting off to a ragged start against Arlington, the Mustangs failed to recover from this setback so that going into Saturday's session it looked very bad for the flag hopes of the team. Medford was floundering in the second division.

Now, Medford is holding up the first division, sitting very comfortable in fourth place, only half a game off the pace.

Apparently, Coach Prior has the team playing at its very best so that in two weeks it wouldn't be surprising to see the club holding down the coveted first place now shared by Melrose, Arlington and Stoneham.

The Mustangs, with its clever first line of Fred Trebino and the Garrity brothers, Jack and Will, will square off against defending champion Melrose and the high scoring Cahoon next Saturday as the league returns to the Garden for its afternoon session.

In the Bay State circuit, Walpole, though deadlocked with Framingham for the leadership, appears to be the outstanding team and the Songin brothers will try to prove it at the expense of Wellesley in the feature game of the afternoon. Meanwhile, Framingham will try to keep pace while maintaining its undefeated record against Needham.

The other two contests will pit B. C. High vs. Norwood and Waltham vs. Watertown.

Wakefield will be facing an opportunity to take over the top rung in the Eastern loop, now shared with Hudson. Wakefield will be in for a soft touch against Malden while Hudson will be forced to tangle with the clever, third place Dedham. Other ultra wild and Brookline lacking the much improved Lexington outfit while Natick will be paired with Somerville.

34 SINKWICH TO STAR IN ONE MOVIE

BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN, MONDAY, JAN. 4, 1943

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 4 (AP)—Minus their backfield star, Frankie Sinkwich, who scored the only touchdown in their 9 to 0 Rose Bowl victory over the UCLA Bruins New Year's Day, the Georgia Bulldog football players left for home by train at 12:15 a. m. (P. W. T.) today after a week-end of sightseeing around the film capital.

Sinkwich, who flew to the Pendleton and San Diego Marine bases over the week-end, boarded a commercial airliner late yesterday for Washington, D. C. There he is to appear before the Touchdown Club to receive the Walter Camp Memorial Cup.

While in Hollywood, Sinkwich conferred with Columbia studio executives and afterward President Harry Cohn announced the All-American grid star had accepted an offer to make a motion picture sometime before he dons a Marine uniform in March.

Sinkwich's wife, Adeline, also received a movie offer, but she turned it down, at least until Frankie enters the service.

There were 55 in the Bulldog party leaving here. They are due in Kansas City at 6:30 a. m. Wednesday on Santa Fe train No. 24, en route home.

Rovers, Tars Tie In 3-3 Overtime

NEW YORK, Jan. 4 (AP)—The New York Rovers and Baltimore Coast Guard Cutters played to a 3-3 overtime tie in the feature game of an Eastern amateur hockey league double-header at Madison Square Garden. The deadlock enabled the Rovers to move into a first-place tie with the idle Philadelphia Falcons.

After each team had come from behind to tie the score once, the visitors moved ahead on Joe Kueker's goal early in the extra session, but Bill Warwick got the eveners at 7:11. The Rovers were leading, 2-1, when Manny Cotlow's goal with only a minute and 17 seconds of the third period remaining sent the game into overtime.

FREY BEST SECOND SACKER

Who is the best second baseman in the National League? You don't, have to look any farther than Cincinnati for an answer, for the Reds have the man in Lonny Frey, the quiet, efficient little fellow who goes about his work with such a lack of fuss that he has not received the recognition due him.

Why is Frey nominated as the best second baseman?

Because: 1—He was the leading hitter among all of the National League second basemen last year. 2—He was tied with Mickey Wittek of the Giants for the fewest number of errors, 18. 3—He had the best average per game in participation in double plays.

Those three reasons for placing Frey at the top came out of last season's averages, and, if you want to go further into the situation, you'll find even more causes. One of them is that he is the fastest runner, and best base runner, among the second basemen, and another is that he is considered the best man at tagging runners since Bobby Wallace. That's going a long way back for a comparison, but old-timers say this is the fact. The ease with which Lonny slaps the ball on the runner and gets himself out of the way is amazing. He does it all in one motion.

Frey's record for consistency speaks for itself. During the past four years he has committed only 81 errors, and, strangely, the year, 1941, he committed the greatest number of misplays, 24, he led the league's second basemen in the fielding percentages. His fielding average that year was .970, as against a four-year average of .975. You can well appreciate how spectacular is this four-year average when you consider that the top mark in 1941 was .970.

Bob Grace slapped in the equalizer at the 13 minute mark and Wendy Jamieson put the visiting Lions ahead 2-1 soon after with a back-hand shot.

The line of Sammy McManus, Nakina Smith and Cliff Barton were the whole offensive for the victors, collecting all three tallies. McManus placed the winners in front early in the first period.

Bob Grace slapped in the equalizer at the 13 minute mark and Wendy Jamieson put the visiting Lions ahead 2-1 soon after with a back-hand shot.

'FREEZING DEFENSE PLANTS MAY UPSET PLAYERS' PLANS

By FRED LANE

The powers that be in baseball, at this writing, are converging on Chicago for final word from Judge Landis as to the future of the game during the war.

Curtailment of schedules, change in the makeup of the ball itself and cut in the traveling of the clubs during the regular season are but a few of the items that are paramount with the powers that be.

No doubt but what the schedule will be cut, with the majority of the clubs now making arrangements to train near or close to their home base.

But one phase of the situation that has apparently been overlooked is a ruling soon to be made by Commr. of Manpower Paul V. McNutt. It's evident, judging from recent reports coming out of Washington, that if this war lasts long enough, the bulk of the manpower in this country will be diverted to the manufacturing of war materials.

MANY CRAFTS AFFECTED

It's a certainty that hundreds of occupations not contributing to the war effort will feel the effects of what ever ruling McNutt and his committee have up their sleeve.

Which brings us down to baseball.

At the present time, there are a number of baseball players and others connected with the game, too old for active service, who are doing their share working in defense plants and in other endeavors contributing to the war effort.

There was talk only short time ago that those already employed in such work would be "frozen" to their jobs. Which brings to mind the situation that would confront the Red Sox should such a ruling come to pass.

At the present time Jim Tabor, Red Sox third baseman, Larry Woodall, coach, and Frank Shenlenbach, pitching coach, are doing their stuff at the Fore River Shipyards.

NEWSOM WORKING IN G. E.

Skeeter Newsome, utility infielder and a pretty handy man to have around in these trying times, is working on defense work in the General Electric plant in Lynn. Then there are Lou Finney and Johnny Peacock, both of whom have planted the biggest part of their 400-acre farms in the southland.

When the question was put to Pres. Bob. Quinn of the Braves, this keen student of baseball was a bit perplexed. He hadn't given the matter much thought, no more than a majority of the baseball leaders.

There is no doubt but that we will have baseball this year. It's the will of President Roosevelt that the game continue for the good of the morale of the people.

It might be that when Paul McNutt makes his finding, those players and others connected with the game will be given their release if the "freeze" order goes into effect. No doubt there will be considerable fault finding from a few should such a condition come to pass.

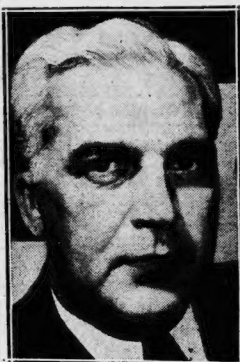

But since they would be in the minority the ruffled waters are sure to be smoothed at the first call of the umpire to play ball.

Landis Plans Five Changes In '43 Rules

CHICAGO, Jan. 4 (AP)—A five point plan, streamlined to gear 1943 baseball with war time travel restrictions, was expected to be presented by Commissioner K. M. Landis tomorrow at his emergency session with officials of the National and American Leagues.

Although Landis refrained from discussing his ideas until the parley, it was believed his plan received hearty approval of ODT Director Joseph B. Eastman when the two conferred in Washington last Wednesday.

The meeting was expected to end the "shadow boxing" most clubs have gone through since the travel question was brought up a month ago in a letter from Eastman urging curtailment and suggesting methods of reducing mileage.

MINORS TO FOLLOW EDIT

Many minor leagues looked to Tuesday's conference for their cue in drawing up definite programs for the coming season. Frank Colley, publicist for the American Ass'n, said association officials would meet in Chicago Wednesday, possibly to pattern their season on decisions reached by the majors.

The Landis plan was believed to embody these points:

1—A reduction in the major league schedule from 154 games to 140.

2—Selection of April 27 as the season's opening day instead of April 13.

3—Longer series so as to reduce intercontinental trips from the currently planned three to two. (The clubs made four East-West swings last year.)

4—Open dates between long "jumps" so as to make the use of Pullmans unnecessary.

5—Reduction of the traveling squads from 25 to 20 players.

Taylor Grossed $248,939 in 1942

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 4 (AP)—Boxing Promoter Herman Taylor disclosed he grossed $248,939.35 for 15 cards during 1942.

This compared with a gross of $241,710.26 for 12 shows during 1941. Taylor pointed out that he put on three outdoor cards in 1941 against only one in 1942 and that the 1941 gross also included the $57,199 gate for the Joe Louis-Gus Dorazio heavyweight title bout at Convention Hall on Feb. 17, 1941.

2 NEW PLAYERS ON PIGS SQUAD

Amateur hockey takes over the Garden spotlight this week as the Boston Olympics tackle the Philadelphia Falcons in a two-game series. They will be played on Friday and Saturday evenings.

The Friday contest will mark the Olympics' first appearance on Garden ice in over two weeks. It will mark, likewise, the first showing of two newcomers, Bill Melochie and Roger Bedard. Melochie is a native of Montreal and played right wing for the Verdun Maple Leafs last winter.

Bedard hails from Granby, Quebec, but has played most of his hockey in this country. He is an 18-year-old wing who played for the famous Mt. Saint Charles School at Providence.

Another right shot about to return to action is Gerry Desrosiers who has been out for six weeks with a broken ankle. Desrosiers started skating Sunday, but Coach Hago Harrington is undecided about using the Cambridge veteran for another week.

With Desrosiers available Harrington will be able to ice a very strong second wing with Jerry Bouer and Clarence Schmidt.

Compulsory Sports Pays At Michigan

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Jan. 4.—When Fielding H. Yost was director of athletics at the University of Michigan his one big slogan was "athletics for all" and he worked steadily until his retirement in 1941 to provide facilities to make his dream come true. Thanks to the existence of those facilities, embodied in an athletic plant worth more than $4,000,000, Michigan in 1942 was really able to learn the meaning of the expression "athletics for all."

Compulsory sports participation for every man in the university became an important requirement in 1942 as the board of regents realized the necessity of putting students in the best of physical condition and turned the task over to Athletic Director H. O. Crisler and his coaching and physical education staffs.

Swimming, basketball, boxing, wrestling, running and jumping, obstacle course racing and gymnastics are today as much a requirement for graduation from Michigan as are fields of academic study.

At the same time, however, Michigan has maintained its program of competitive athletics for varsity and freshman teams in nine different sports and is still doing so. Right now, for instance, members of the varsity basketball, hockey, wrestling, swimming and track teams are working out daily as they prepare for their schedules of intercollegiate competition.

Within a few months most of the male students in the university probably will be in uniform and even though they continue with their studies it will be at Army and Navy direction. What developments this change will bring to intercollegiate athletics remains to be seen.
